

A Late Christmas Gift From Ray

$13.50 Tax Cut for Kingston

By HUGH REYNOLDS
Kingston land owners will enjoy a late Christmas present from their mayor, a $13.50 tax cut, The Freeman learned today.
Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan's proposed budget for 1969, which will be presented to the public on Dec. 26, calls for a tax rate per thousand of $70.16, down from this year's $83.66.
Biggest Budget in History
Thus, the mayor has kept a long-standing promise of a significant tax cut, despite the fact that this year's budget is the biggest in the history of the city, a total of $4,789,798.
That is almost $725,000 above last year's budget of $4,065,518. Seemingly, tax cuts and budget hikes are inconsistent. The key is increased revenues, more than $1,200,000 anticipated next year.

The biggest jump in revenues comes from the city's two percent sales tax, which went into effect March 1. Estimated revenues from the sales tax this year were $325,000. Next year the mayor estimates almost a million dollars... $982,000.
Estimated fees and charges from the Kingston Laboratory are also up, by $230,000, to $859,740.
In addition, state aid per capita will more than double, from $308,693 this year to $687,902 in 1969, another $380,000 on the plus side.
The mayor has continued his policy of pay raises for city employees, particularly the firemen and policemen. The budget for personal services in the fire department will jump from $433,000 to $475,000.

Smaller One for Police
Policemen will split up a somewhat smaller raise, that department's salary, appropriations going from $427,000 to $462,000.
Note: The Freeman figures are rounded off to the nearest thousand. For instance, the actual budget estimate for personal services in the police department is $462,665.
Besides his continuing policy of better salaries for city employees, the mayor is also continuing his efforts to lower the city's indebtedness.
Toward that end, he appears to be making a special effort in next year's budget to avoid the borrowing of money, for any purpose.

The mayor has included a capital improvement item in next year's budget which includes some $90,000 for a street program and another $60,000 for equipment for those programs. In the past money for street programs and equipment for them has been raised through the issuance of bonds.
The mayor's debt reduction is expected to be almost $520,000 next year.
Another unique item in next year's budget will be $90,000 in reserve for uncollected taxes. In the past the city has had to float tax anticipation notes when its tax collections did not meet its bills.
Mayor Garraghan has reportedly termed his 1969 budget "a good budget" but mayor's budgets, regardless of their merit, traditionally become political footballs once they reach the Common Council.

A well-worn football is Garraghan's plan for a city hall downtown. The 1968 Council twice defeated him on that measure. Garraghan said in December that he would include money in the 1969 budget for the purchase of land and the hiring of an architect for his new hall.
The Figures Differ
In fact, he has, but the figures differ from what he told the aldermen early this month. At that time, Garraghan said he would include an item for the land and the architect of $55,000. In his '69 budget the item is $35,000, not $55,000. He estimates he will have to spend $25,000 for the land and $10,000 for the architect in next year's budget.
The post of human relations executive director, subject of some controversy in recent days, is slated for a salary raise of from $6,000 to $6,800. Irving Bell is now the director.
The mayor plans to move forward in two areas, shade trees and street lighting. Next year's estimate for shade trees is $12,150, up $10,000 from this year.
Over the past two years the mayor has spent about $212,000 on street lights and will continue that program, estimating $132,000 for next year.
The public hearing on Mayor Garraghan's budget is set for Dec. 26 at 7:30 p. m. in the Common Council Chambers, third floor, city hall.

Yost—Surprise Pick As UN Ambassador

NEW YORK (UPI)—President-elect Richard M. Nixon, in a surprise move, today named a veteran career diplomat Charles Woodruff Yost to be U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.
Until the moment that Nixon personally made the announcement, it had been widely speculated that R. Sargent Shriver, brother-in-law of the late President Kennedy, now U.S. ambassador to France, would be named to the world organization post.
Yost has spent most of his professional life in the foreign service and is considered an expert on Mideast affairs. He previously held foreign service posts in Egypt and Poland.
Nixon told newsmen that Shriver had been considered for the U.N. job but that it had been decided he would be more useful in his present post. Nixon said Shriver had agreed to stay on.

Nixon also disclosed that he had discussed the U.N. ambassadorship with Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Sen. Eugene McCarthy and others he did not identify. "All these men have a dedicated respect for the job," but we reached the conclusion that it either wasn't the right time or the right man for the job."
Nixon, in response to questions, insisted that the job had not been specifically offered to anyone "until we knew he would accept." He said he and Yost agreed that Yost would take the post "early this week."
The president-elect stressed that at this time the United States needed a professional diplomat in the U.N. rather than a widely-known political figure with some experience in foreign affairs, as has been the case in the past.

Yost's long career in the foreign service—and particularly his service as deputy permanent representative to the United Nations from 1961 to 1966—admirably qualified him for the position.
Another condition that had been set by Nixon was that the U.N. post go to a Democrat who had supported Humphrey in the recent presidential campaign.
Yost, as Nixon pointed out, was Humphrey's principal advisor on the United Nations and other international peace keeping activities.
Nixon repeatedly stressed Yost's skills as a diplomat and a negotiator and his familiarity with the workings of the United Nations.

In particular, Nixon said, Yost was an expert on the Middle East, perhaps one of the foremost authorities on that area in the world. He said that the primary function of the United Nations at this time was not to try to settle the differences between the "superpowers" but to prevent the start of wars in such "third world" areas as the Middle East. These conflicts, he said, carry the danger of involving the big powers.
Yost was at Nixon's side when the president-elect made the announcement in the Regency Room of the Hotel Pierre. Reporters craned their necks as the Nixon party entered the room, attempting to visually discover the identity of the new ambassador-to-be before it was announced. Virtually no one recognized Yost.

Suspects Known to Police In Barbara Mackle Kidnap

By FRANK EIDGE
MIAMI (UPI)—A blue foreign station wagon abandoned at the scene of an aborted $500,000 ransom payoff pointed today to a brawny young marine scientist as one of the persons wanted for questioning in the kidnaping of Barbara Jane Mackle, coed daughter of a millionaire Miami land developer.
Also sought in the case is a young girl who may have been dressed as a boy when the 20-year-old Emory University coed was snatched from her mother's side in an Atlanta, Ga., motel room before dawn Tuesday.
Reporters traced the Massachusetts license tag on the blue station wagon, a 1966 Volvo, to George G. Deacon, 28, a former resident of North, Mass., who moved to a Miami trailer park and went to work last June 1 as a researcher for the University of Miami's Institute of Marine Sciences.

The FBI, however, refused official comment on the case in the face of a public plea to the kidnapers by the victim's father, Robert Mackle, 57, that "I will do anything you ask so my daughter will be freed."

An FBI spokesman denied reports published in Miami Thursday night that the federal agency had issued a pickup order on Deacon and an unidentified girl and heavy set man.
Despite the bungled pickup of the ransom money by the kidnapers, whose noise in the pre dawn darkness Thursday brought Miami police to the scene, Mackle still held to a desperate hope he would get another chance to buy his daughter's life. The police had not been informed of the ransom arrangement.
But 24 hours after the ransom payoff failed Mackle apparently had received no further word from the kidnapers about his dark-haired daughter.
Near the scene of the abortive ransom payoff, police found a 13-foot, open outboard boat which was discovered later to have been stolen from the Marine Institute where Deacon worked, about three miles across Biscayne Bay. It was the noise of the boat's 33-horsepower outboard engine in the early morning which caused a resident of the area to awaken and call Miami city police to the scene when he saw the boat beach nearby.

A little more than an hour before, Robert Mackle, carrying the $500,000 as instructed by the kidnapers, left his Coral Gables home alone, drove to the Bayside and put the suitcase over a seawall just above the high water mark.
Police theorized the kidnapers, dressed in diving suits, watched from a thickly-grown small island nearby and picked up the money from the boat. They beached the craft about a half mile down the coast near where the blue station wagon had been parked.
Two patrolmen surprised the kidnapers as they changed clothing at the car. The kidnapers got away, but left the money behind.

Pueblo Crew Release Due

WASHINGTON (AP)—North Korea is preparing to release the 82 surviving crewmen of the captured U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo in the near future, perhaps by Christmas, according to a high government source.
The source, who could not be identified, said he could not disclose any details, except to say that the North Koreans agreed to release the prisoners following a total of 7½ hours of meetings with American officials Tuesday and Thursday at Panmunjom, site of the Korean armistice talks.
Defense Department officials termed the Thursday meeting at Panmunjom "constructive," but with "no decisions made," although developments were expected "very shortly."
The State Department Thursday had declined to express any thoughts of the release reports. "I will not express an opinion one way or another, and I hope you will bear with us," State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey said. He did not deny the reports.
Reports had circulated in recent days of the possible release of the officers and crewmen of the ship, captured last Jan. 23 off the coast of North Korea.
And from South Korea came word Thursday that a high government source said he believed the Pueblo crew would be released in two or three days.
The South Korean source indicated the only thing standing in the way of the release were some procedural matters, such as when, where and how the men were to be freed.
Some sources in the United States said Thursday that relatives of the Pueblo crew had been notified to stand by for an impending announcement concerning the 82 men.

However, late Thursday night, almost all relatives reached by the Associated Press said they had not been contacted by the government.
Mrs. Lloyd Bucher, whose husband commanded the Pueblo told the AP Thursday she had received no confirmation of the reports from official or any other sources.
Mrs. Bucher, who has led a campaign to free the captured men, said that "this is not the first time such rumors have been published and I won't believe until Pete (her husband) walks in the door."

Strict silence was imposed on all U.S. officials dealing with the Pueblo case, lest any statement create a last-minute hitch in the negotiations.
There has been no mention of the release of the ship with its elaborate multimillion dollar electronic listening devices.
North Korea had demanded in exchange for the release of the Pueblo crew an admission and apology by the United States that the Pueblo intruded into North Korean waters, and an assurance that there would be no further "spy" activities off the North Korean coast.

The United States denied that the Pueblo was ordered to intrude inside the 12-mile limit set by North Korea. But Secretary of State Dean Rusk and other officials have said that after the men are released and if an impartial third party finds the United States acted improperly, appropriate action would be taken.

FLUORIDATION: State Can Act

By SHANE CROSBY
(Last of Three Articles)
State action on the question "To fluoridate or not to fluoridate" has not been considered in the Assembly or Legislature since the beginning of 1967 when an assemblyman and a senator joined to present a bill requiring all water supplies serving more than 10,000 persons be fluoridated.
Assemblyman Stanley Harwood (D-Nassau County) and Senator D. Clinton Dominick III (R-Newburgh) backed the bill, but it got no further than the Senate's Public Health Committee.
That was the second year Harwood attempted to have the bill acted upon. In 1966, he brought out the bill and it received widespread play in newspapers and a good amount of attention in the Assembly.
Perhaps too much. A woman seated in the gallery of the Assembly loudly denounced the bill as it was debated upon on the floor in 1966 and threatened to toss a "bomb." The "bomb" turned out to be a wadded-up sheet of paper that floated harmlessly to the desk of an assemblyman below.

One of the co-sponsors was called recently and asked about the possibility of a renewed attempt. Senator Dominick said he doubted that the bill, or another one like it would be brought up this year.
He said the issue had died down in Newburgh, which has been using fluoridated water since 1945. He said he helped bring the bill before the Albany body "to bring the issue to the attention" of the lawmakers. Dominick said he did not feel at the time that the bill would be passed, noting the vast amount of disagreement on the fluoridation question.
Others, however, do feel that the fluoride question will come before that body during this session. Ulster County Health Department Commissioner Dr. Vernon B. Link is of the feeling that the only recourse for acceptance of fluoridated water is state control.
The State Health Department, Link said recently, has been pushing for some type of statewide law to cover fluoridation. If such a law, as one requiring communities of 10,000 or more to use fluoridated water, were to be put to a state-wide vote, Dr. Link is of the opinion it would be passed.

He summed up his stand on the possible passage of state law requiring fluoridation for communities of 10,000 or more in saying "I think it will. When, I do not know."
The state health agency already is charged with the supervision, or at least enforcement of state laws regarding fluoridation as part of its control over water systems in the state and their operation in conformity with state laws.
It has supported fluoridation, saying: "The fluoridation of public water supplies is recommended subject to the provision of adequate control measures in accordance with specified requirements of the State Commissioner of Health and in accordance with the provisions of the Sanitary Code." It is the official policy of the New York State Department of Health, adopted in 1951.
Furthermore, the department says, "Fluoridation of water supplies, a powerful aid in preventing tooth decay, can be accomplished at low cost, is safe and effective when the proper procedures are followed."
Strict requirements are spelled out by the department as to the administration, types of chemical feeding equipment, control of fluoridation process, and training of personnel to operate the system.

Fluoride is one of the substances that is both found in and purposely added to water supplies. While many communities debate the question of adding fluoride to water for dental purposes, other communities are faced with the problem of too much fluoride in their water.
Still the debate goes on, whether loudly or behind committee doors.
The only certainty in the issue is that it will never end until a clear-cut answer is given one way or the other. The answer seems not to be in "proof" one way or the other, due to the vast amount of charges and countercharges from both sides. The answer seems to be in the desire of the water drinking public. Whether they are willing to accept the outcome of a vote if called for—either statewide or within a local water district.
And once such a vote is tallied who is to say that will mark the end of the questioning on "To fluoridate or not to fluoridate."

Plans Data In Wawarsing

By LYNN MULVANEY
ELLENVILLE — Wawarsing residents in attendance at a public informational planning meeting last night, learned what is envisioned for their town by both professional and local planners.

About 35 persons attended the meeting held at the Town Hall at the request of Supervisor Frank Harkin.

Maps shown and explanations made indicate that most suitable residential areas are those in the Napanoch-Kerhonkson section on the east side of Rt. 209. Also a small portion of the south side of town and south of the Nevele toward the Spring Glen area.

Harkin told The Freeman this morning that the Wawarsing Planning Board is adopting a mobile policy as far as industry is concerned and feels that industry can be anywhere provided that the planning board approves it and the town board also sanctions it.

Last night's meeting was a joint effort with planning and town board members, professional consultants of the firm of Brown and Anthony and representatives of the County Planning Board all taking part.

Those in attendance learned that the entire town has been "screened" for residential areas, those most likely to be developed, those least likely to be developed, and those most suitable for industry and building. It was pointed out that the town's 85,000 or more acres is comprised of all types of terrain with each more or less suitable to particular needs.

It was also emphasized that the potential plans indicate no large relocation of shopping areas or present facilities throughout the town.

It is felt that the town has a good road ordinance, Harkin said. It is a liberal one calling for 10 per cent grade with some exceptions.

Harkin also carefully pointed out that the town is not buying the professional recommendations as a "package deal" but would make individual appraisal of the merits of each plan developed.

The planning board which has been functioning for two years, was established, with Harold Sashin as chairman, to bring to the town board an intelligent plan to develop the town without styming its growth. The planning board does not order the town, it suggests and makes recommendations to it.

Both the planning and the town boards agreed last night to hold more public hearings in the future in order to make available to the public a clear understanding of what plans have been developed to date. The meetings will be held in various locations in order to accommodate all areas of the town.

Last night's meeting was the last one in conjunction with the professional planners although Brown and Anthony will be "on call" if their services are needed further.

Wawarsing is one of four towns to be involved in a planning study with professionals. Similar efforts have been made in Rochester, Marletown and Rosendale.

Water-Sewer District

Napanoch Gets Grant

By CHARLES BERMPOHL
ELLENVILLE — Town of Wawarsing Supervisor Frank W. Harkin termed "beautiful" the announcement that the Department of Housing and Urban Development had awarded a $10,244 planning grant to the Napanoch water-sewer district.

The announcement was made late yesterday in Washington D.C.

Wording of the declaration said that the grant was for the planning of a "water supply and distribution system for" the Town of Wawarsing.

Supervisor Harkin explained that the request for the grant was hand-delivered to officials at the New York headquarters of HUD late in March.

"We were told that final confirmation on the grant might take as long as 24 months," the first term Republican supervisor said.

As late as Wednesday Harkin felt that it would take some time for the preliminary planning funds to become available.

Completely Unexpected

In November, HUD had informed the supervisor that funds for such projects were committed through 1969.

Yesterday, however, Harkin said that the $10,000-plus grant "was what we asked for to get the plan off the ground."

He indicated that the grant was completely unexpected.

The water-sewer scheme for Napanoch originated during the administration of Democrat George M. Barthel.

A group of Napanoch area residents produced signed petitions calling for the establishment of such a system.

What happened soon after, however, demonstrated that not everyone in the Wawarsing hamlet agreed with the idea.

Controversy arose when residents, reportedly by far a great majority of them, complained of increased taxes if such a district were created.

Those who wanted the district, it was reported, lived mainly in the lowlands of the hamlet where the overflow from filled cesspools and from heavy rains created alleged health hazards.

Most of the opposition allegedly came from residents who lived in the higher elevations.

Another source of opposition came from many senior citizens and others who lived on small, fixed incomes.

Three Districts

What the Barthel administration did was to create three districts in the hamlet, A, B and C.

It was determined that District A would get the district and be charged the higher taxes for it.

District A is geographically defined as the lowlands of the hamlet.

The district borders Route

Flu-Like Disease Toll at 703

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — Deaths from influenza, pneumonia and related diseases have reached epidemic proportions in 122 U.S. cities during the past two weeks, the National Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta announced today.

The center said 703 deaths from pneumonia-influenza—213 more than normal—had been reported in the nation during the week that ended Dec. 14.

The flu epidemic continued today to cause school closings, cancellations of public events, and slowed-down business and holiday activities.

Mamie Also Ill

It also threatened to dim a major social event—the wedding on Sunday of Julie Nixon to David Eisenhower. Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the groom's grandmother, was reported ill at Walter Reed Army Hospital, where her husband, the former president, is recuperating from a recent series of heart attacks.

The former first lady's press secretary said Mrs. Eisenhower may join her husband in viewing the wedding on closed-circuit television in Eisenhower's hospital room.

Joining Mrs. Eisenhower, President Johnson and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey on the sick list were many other notables, including Senator-elect Barry Goldwater of Arizona, Special Presidential Assistant Walt W. Rostow, Assistant White House Press Secretary Tom Johnson, and Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

New York City Health Commissioner Edward O'Rourke said that because of the flu epidemic and a concurrent strike by fuel oil deliverers in New York, "The situation is bad to strike was announced Thursday night but there was little hope of resuming deliveries pending a ratification vote by drivers Sunday.

The National Communicable Disease Center said the most severe outbreaks of respiratory diseases, including Hong Kong flu and other influenza strains, had been reported in the Central, Northeastern, Rocky Mountain and Middle Atlantic States.

The center cautioned, however, that a definite trend could not be established until statistics are compiled for another week.

JERUSALEM (UPI)—Israeli jets flushed out Jordanian snipers in fresh battling on the cease-fire line near the Sea of Galilee, Israeli sources said today.

They said the jet fighters went into action, strafing the sniper positions after the Jordanians opened the fight Thursday night.

Israeli military spokesmen said nothing of the jets. But they said Jordanian troops using bazookas and machine guns opened up on Israeli troops on the west bank of the Jordan river that forms the cease-fire line. They said two Israeli soldiers suffered wounds.

The sources said the Jordanians had lodged themselves in thick brush on the east bank. They were difficult to spot. The sources said the jets' fire brought the Jordanians out into the open.

Earlier in the week Israel sent in jets to blast Jordanian positions along the east bank of the Jordan.

An Israeli military communique said the fighting lasted for more than an hour Thursday night. The Israelis said the Jordanians started it by attacking an Israeli patrol.

A Jordanian spokesman in Amman said today the 30-minute battle Thursday night killed one Jordanian soldier. The spokesman said the Israelis started the fight.

In Cairo, diplomatic exchanges on a Middle East peace formula among major nations have stopped since Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad rejected a plan by Secretary of State Dean Rusk, the newspaper Al Ahram said today.

Everything 'Go' for Apollo 8 Adventure on Saturday

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—Everything was "go" today for Saturday's launch of three men into orbit around the moon on a $310 million adventure without equal in space age annals.

"We're as ready as we can be," reported Apollo 8 commander Frank Borman.

The countdown easily overcame two time-consuming difficulties Thursday night and hummed along smoothly toward the 7:41 a.m. EST Saturday blastoff of Borman, James Lovell and William Anders.

Today was a day of rest for the three astronauts. They took Thursday night off, and Lovell took advantage of the time to visit his wife, Marilyn, and their four children for the second evening in a row. The other astronauts' families are in Houston.

Weather Okay

Weathermen predicted cloudy, but satisfactory conditions for launch time. Tracking stations and recovery forces around the world reported they were set. Even solar radiation forecasters gave an all-clear nod to the moon-bound pilots.

They are scheduled to swing into a 69-mile high orbit around the moon Dec. 24, circle it 10 times and shoot back to earth Christmas morning after flashing a special yule telecast a quarter of a million miles back to television viewers around the world.

The object of the daring six-day mission is to clear the way for a landing of Americans on the moon as early as next July.

It also should significantly add to the knowledge of the sphere that has puzzled earthlings since their beginning.

"This particular flight is really required," said Lovell, the flight's navigator and the man who has logged more time in space than anyone else. "It's actually going to pave the way to make it easier for the people to take the lunar module (landing craft) to the moon."

Repairs Made

The final 28 hours of the long countdown began on schedule at 8:51 p.m. EST Thursday after technicians used up most of a five hour 51-minute rest period to catch up on work stalled earlier by a faulty valve and a leaking pipe in ground fueling equipment.

The problems delayed the loading of frigid liquid oxygen and liquid hydrogen into the spacecraft to fuel the ship's three fuel cell electric power generators.

The rest period—or "hold"—that enabled technicians to recoup the lost time was added to the countdown only last week to deal with such difficulties if necessary. Launch operations manager Paul Donnelly said Thursday, "We're thankful for our foresight."

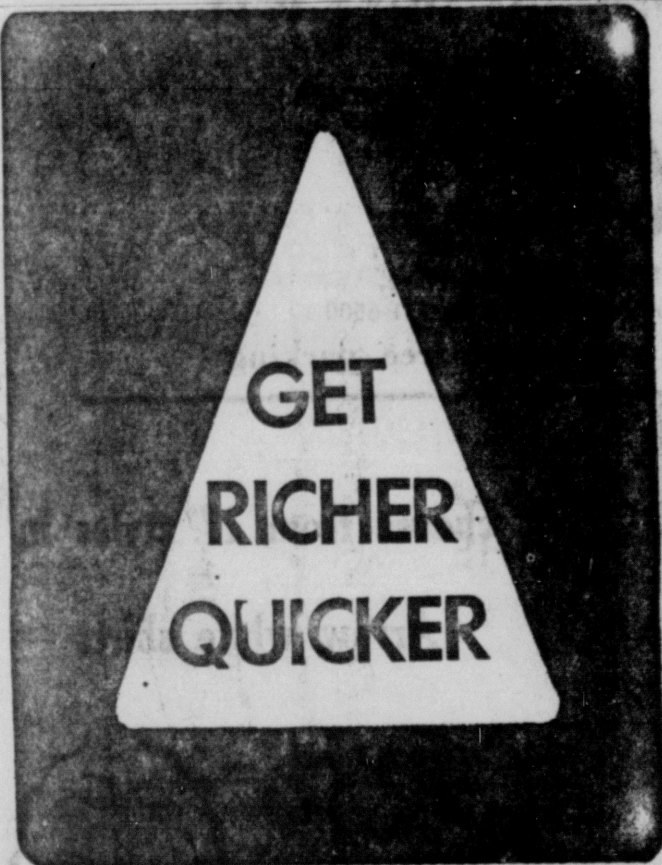

Two more of these planned "holds" remain in the countdown. One, lasting six hours, extends from mid-afternoon into tonight and a one-hour period precedes the time when the astronauts board their spacecraft before dawn Saturday.

The critical loading of 783,000 gallons of liquid hydrogen and liquid oxygen into the three stages of the 36-story Saturn 5 rocket is scheduled to begin late tonight under the white glow of powerful floodlights.

Dr. Kurt H. Debus, the director of the moonport and the man who headed America's first successful satellite launch 11 years ago, said Thursday the chances are "very, very good" for a full success.

"It is the beginning of a vast new frontier," Debus said.

Is it fair to compare Black Velvet with America's largest-selling whiskies?

We're willing to put our money on your nose.

So do this. Sniff. Black Velvet versus a sniff of any of America's big name whiskies.

Our blend of expensive Canadian whiskies tastes so light and smooth you can actually smell the difference.

Our idea is simple. Make a whiskey good enough to give American whiskey drinkers a place to go. Will they make the move, when Black Velvet costs a little more?

Bartlett Plans Chairman

Rocky Steps Up Crime War

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Governor Rockefeller stepped up the state's war on crime Thursday by creating a New York State Crime Control Planning Board and an Office on Crime Control Planning in the executive department.

At the same time, Rockefeller asked the federal government for $1.3 million under the Safe Streets Act to begin operating the new office.

Richard J. Bartlett of Glens Falls, former assembly whip, was named chairman of the planning board. He is presently chairman of the State Crime Control Council and chairman of the Temporary State Commission on Revision of the Penal Law and Criminal Code.

"These agencies will provide the creative partnership between the state and local governments, as well as with private citizens, necessary to develop new approaches to the problems of law enforcement and crime prevention," Rockefeller said.

The board is responsible for advising the governor with respect to law enforcement planning at all levels of government.

Other Members

Also named to the committee were Paul D. McGinnis, commissioner of correction; William E. Kirwan, superintendent of state police; Thomas J. McCoy, administrator of the judicial conference and Lawrence W. Pierce, chairman of the Narcotics Addiction Control Commission.

Also, Milton Luger, youth division director; Frank Hogan, district attorney of New York County; James N. White, district attorney of Montgomery County; Howard R. Leary, police commissioner of New York City and Maurice F. Dean, Schuyler County sheriff.

Also William F. Walsh, mayor of Syracuse; B. John Tutuska, Erie County executive; Richard Evans, Chautauqua County supervisors board chairman; Sidney M. Spector, Legal Aid Society director of Westchester County; Professor John Martin of Fordham University Law School; Rev. Earl B. Moore, pastor of St. Paul's Baptist Church in the Bronx; Mrs. Marie Meng, president of the Federation of Women's Clubs; Bartolo Buiges, president of the Manhattan Bus Drivers Association; Robert MacCrate, former counsel to the governor; Walter Scott, retired police inspector of Rochester and Louis J. Lefkowitz, the state attorney general.

Couple Injured In Plane Crash

ERIE, Pa. (UPI) — Two persons were under intensive hospital care today with injuries suffered when their single-engine Cherokee plane apparently ran out of fuel during a freezing rain storm and crashed in a wooded area about 10 miles south of here.

Authorities identified the injured as Norman Cousins, 24, of Flushing, N.Y., and Mrs. Joan Krause, 29, of Briar Cliff Manor, N.Y.

Cousins suffered cuts, bruises and a possible leg injury, according to attendants at St. Vincent Hospital. Mrs. Krause sustained a fractured ankle, a back injury and contusions.

A spokesman at the control tower of Erie International Airport said the plane came down near Route 99 while en route from White Plains, N.Y., to Erie.

Julie Decided On News Bar

NEW YORK (UPI) — Julie Nixon and David Eisenhower will be married Sunday in a ceremony from which all newsmen and photographers will be barred — with one exception.

An NBC camera crew will film the ceremony for closed circuit transmission to Washington's Walter Reed Hospital where it will be seen by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Eisenhower will be watching the marriage of his grandson to the daughter of the man who served him as vice president, President-elect Richard M. Nixon. The Rev. Dr. Norman Vincent Peale will officiate at the 4 p.m. ceremony at Marble Collegiate Church.

Mrs. Eisenhower is expected to attend the ceremonies in the 1,800-seat Protestant church. Some 450 to 500 friends and relatives of the couple are invited, along with politicians including the cabinet of the bride's father.

"Julie decided she didn't want anyone watching that wedding who was not a personal friend of hers — or someone she knows," said Gerry Van der Heuvel, Mrs. Nixon's press secretary, in explaining the restrictions on newsmen.

Reporters and photographers will only be able to see the couple briefly after the ceremony, then again at the reception, according to Mrs. Van der Heuvel who held a news conference Wednesday on the coverage of the wedding.

"All details are Julie's decisions, not her parents'," said Mrs. Van der Heuvel.

Julie, 20, also disclosed that she would have all three of the sisters of the intended bridegroom as attendants. Mrs. Van der Heuvel said that Barbara Anne Eisenhower, Echavarria-

Uribe and her husband Fernando will be attendants.

Susan and Mary Jean Eisenhower, David's other sisters, were on the initial list of attendants. All are the children of the former President's son, John Eisenhower.

Julie's sister Tricia will be maid of honor at the single ring ceremony, expected to last 25 minutes. The couple's honeymoon plans have not been announced.

Man Sentenced In Flag Burning; First in Nation

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A 25-year-old man was sentenced to four months in prison this week in the nation's first conviction for flag burning.

U.S. Dist. Judge Lloyd Burke sentenced John E. Kangas, who admittedly burned an American flag during a demonstration in front of the San Francisco Federal Building Nov. 14.

Kangas' co-defendant, Norma L. Ferguson, 21, San Francisco, is scheduled to enter a plea on the same charge Jan. 3.

Congress enacted the flag-burning law this year and set the maximum penalty at one year's imprisonment and a $1,000 fine.

Kangas refused to enter a plea on a separate charge of refusing to submit to induction, so Judge Burke entered an innocent plea for him and ordered a jury trial.

Kangas, acting as his own attorney, then sought delay of execution of the flag-burning sentence until after completion of the draft case. The judge denied the motion and ordered Kangas into immediate custody.

Local Opportunities

The second annual Career Opportunities Conference will be held Monday, December 23, from noon to 8 p. m. at the Governor Clinton Hotel. The conference is being conducted by the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce in order to acquaint college students, home for the holidays, and returning servicemen with career opportunities in Ulster County. Employers of teachers, engineers, technicians, accountants, bankers, insurance and retail management will conduct personalized assistance and consultation.

Actual job interviews will be conducted by many of the exhibitors who also will display products. Intended primarily for those who will graduate in June, the conference provides opportunities for college juniors for summer employment, and for returning members of the armed forces who will be entering civilian careers.

Many of our young people seek jobs in larger communities, where they think opportunities are greater. In past years, job careers were limited in the area, but today with business expansion here that is no longer the case. Ulster County young people should first ascertain the career possibilities at home before pursuing careers elsewhere.

Ulster County industrial and business leaders don't want to see local college-trained people leave their home town for they are aware that a community to take its rightful place in this competitive area must have young talent in their organizations.

Career Opportunities Conference, sponsored by the Chamber, is designed to serve as a showcase of opportunities available in this immediate area. It is a service to the students, their parents, returning veterans, local employers and the general public. To the veterans, it shows in a special way that their services in the armed forces are appreciated.

The conference also can serve as a spring board for local government officials to formulate long-range plans to enable industry to operate effectively here. Adoption of a county sales tax by Ulster County Legislators would be a step in this direction.

Christmas Tree Safety

The Christmas tree, be it fir, spruce or pine, has been taken from its natural home in the woods where it was bathed in sunshine and able to absorb nutrients and moisture from the soil. In the home, this annual holiday visitor is expected to withstand heat, and extended periods of dryness.

With a little care, it is possible to keep the tree bright, fragrant and healthy throughout its seasonal stay by following these rules:

Bring the tree indoors as short a time as possible before Christmas and cut at least an inch from the trunk. Then place the tree in water and keep it watered while in your home. Use a tree standard that will hold water and is large enough to keep the tree from tipping.

The tree should be placed in the coolest part of the room. If possible, keep it away from fireplaces, radiators, television and any other appliance that would hasten the drying of needles.

Use fireproof decorations and keep tinsel out of light sockets. Don't use candles and avoid overloading circuits. Check all tree lights for loose bulbs and frayed wire.

Following these simple rules will keep the holiday a happy one.

Root of Revolt—Women!

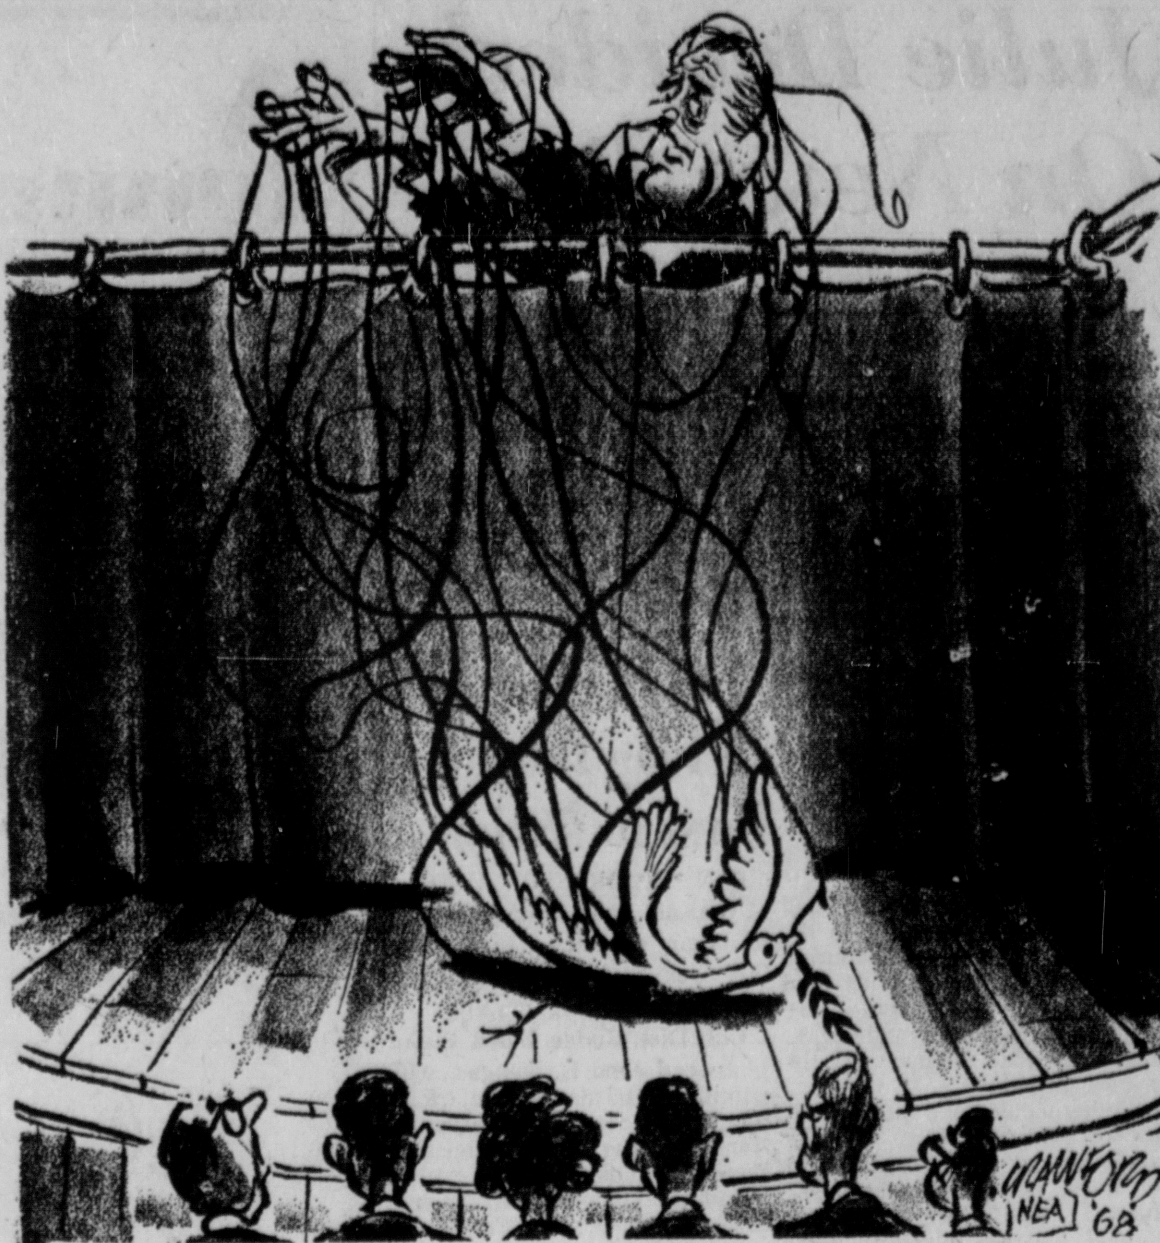

English satirist C. Northcote Parkinson has put his finger on the source of the youth revolt in America. It's all the fault of women.

The campus revolution traces directly back to the feminine revolution, he says. "Women demanded the vote and equality and ceased to submit to the control of their husbands. In the process, they began to lose control of their own children."

Parkinson is famous as the author of "Parkinson's Laws," poking fun at bureaucracy and other aspects of modern life. When the women learn about this theory, however, it will be Parkinson's turn to learn about another, very ancient, law—the law of survival.

Desertion to avoid hazardous duty, meaning combat, is a more serious offense than desertion to avoid normal duty. The U.S. Court of Military Appeals ruled that duty in Vietnam does not necessarily fulfill the definition of hazardous duty. So many are on non-combat duty, that the Army must prove a deserter actually walked away from combat to hold him responsible for the more serious offense.

Robbing passengers on a bus crossing Iowa, two highwaymen modernized the old Wild West stage coach robberies. They gathered $2,000 and other valuables and fled in a confederate's automobile. They even adapted the hijacking methods popularized in planes by riding the bus as passengers, then pointing a gun at the driver. Swift and sure apprehension and punishment could discourage others.

Take-off Time?

David Lawrence Says

Courage Needed to Prevent Trouble at Inauguration

WASHINGTON — Will Nixon's inauguration ceremonies be accompanied by a repetition of what happened in Chicago during the Democratic National Convention last August? This question is being asked now because of plans for a "counter-inauguration" to be conducted by the same committee which organized the demonstrations in Chicago and which claimed that their protests would be "peaceful" and "nonviolent."

The same group — the "National Mobilization Committee to end the war in Vietnam" — has just announced that it intends to hold a rally in Washington near the Capitol on the day before inauguration and to carry on a demonstration in an area along the parade route on Inauguration Day.

David Dellinger, chairman of the committee, has revealed that "preliminary negotiations" are under way with federal and District of Columbia officials to obtain the necessary permission. He said he anticipates no difficulty, but declared that if the city officials "take a repressive stand, this would raise the possibility of civil disobedience." He added: "Because we are peaceful, doesn't mean we shall surrender all of our rights."

This could be construed as a threat of disorder and a warning to federal and city officials that, unless they grant the permits, "civil disobedience" might follow.

The Walker Report on the turbulence in Chicago referred to the National Mobilization Committee, headed by Dellinger, as the group which organized the demonstrations there. Of Dellinger himself, the report says he "contributed significantly to mobilizing for the Pentagon march" in October 1967, and points out that he has twice visited both Hanoi and Cuba and led a delegation which met in Czechoslovakia with North Vietnamese and representatives of the Viet Cong. He is called "the senior member of the peace movement."

The Dellinger committee consists of a coalition from more than 100 groups, and the plan is to have "workshops" on the Saturday before inauguration to familiarize the demonstrators with the issues and organization problems. On Sunday, a march and a rally in the vicinity of the Capitol are planned. A prearranged area is being sought for a "peaceful demonstration" coincident with and on the same street as the inaugural parade.

The application for these permits presents the same situation as Mayor Daley faced in Chicago. Undoubtedly the National Mobilization Committee to end the war in Vietnam wants to get publicity on radio and television and in the press through demonstrations carried on while the nation watches the inauguration of a new president.

If the Dellinger committee wishes to stage a protest, this could be done a couple miles away from the Capitol. Or a demonstration could be held an hour after the parade is over. But no city is under obligation to give a permit for any particular area just to allow the exercise of "Freedom of Speech." Any stadium or auditorium or convention hall or even a park area can be made available.

The responsibility of the city of Washington and federal officials is to insure a peaceful atmosphere for the inauguration ceremonies. In view of the record of the National Mobilization Committee and other groups, there is every reason to deny permits for demonstrations which could in any way conflict with the inaugural parade or the inauguration itself or provoke disorders.

The Dellinger committee says that its protest is not aimed so much at Nixon as against continuation of the Vietnam war and "the enslavement of black people at home." All such expressions are permissible under the right of free speech, but no government, federal or municipal, is obligated to furnish publicity facilities to dissenters. This is particularly true if there is any possibility of interruption of the inaugural parade or the eruption of fistfights among spectators, many of whom would resent the interferences by the demonstrators.

If a permit is granted, it is the intention of the National Mobilization Committee to call upon supporters from all parts of the country to come to the three-day demonstrations which are planned. So unless courage is exhibited by the officials and permits are given only for areas that are far away from the inaugural ceremony and parade or at a different hour, Nixon's inauguration day is in for trouble.

West Germany Opens Trade Offensive on Red World

By DONALD R. SHANOR
Chicago Daily News Foreign Service
B O N N, Dec. 20 — West Germany has opened a trade offensive toward the Communist world on several fronts.

At a time when the pessimists were predicting that the return of the cold war caused by the invasion of Czechoslovakia would hamper such contacts, Bonn took the following actions:

— Cleared the way to a potential doubling of the machinery and automotive trade with East Germany by 1970.

— Resumed negotiations with the Soviet Union on service by Aeroflot, the Soviet airline, and Lufthansa, the West German airline.

— Held negotiations with Romania on expanding the already sizable trade agreement that puts Romania in third place among Bonn's eastern business partners.

— Held out the possibility of establishing commercial relations with Communist China.

The agreement with East Germany received the most attention here because inner-German trade had been stagnating since reaching its high of about $700,000,000 in 1966.

The agreement provides for machinery, automotive, and electro-technical exports from West to East to reach $100,000,000 by 1970, double the present level, and for a proportionate increase in East Germany's deliveries to this country.

The increasing West German interest in Communist China, however, is attracting the most attention from abroad.

Foreign Minister Willy Brandt said in a widely cited interview that trade with China "was developing, if not as fast as Soviet propaganda likes to pretend."

"But it is interesting for us that this trade broadens, and also for the Chinese side or otherwise they wouldn't participate," Brandt added. "Up until now, it has been possible without formalization. If it will remain this way forever is another question."

This statement, indicating plans to establish trade relations with Peking, was immediately assailed in the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia as an "alarming new German policy in Asia."

Commentators in the non-Communist world saw the move as a reaction to the indications from Peking that it would be more friendly to the new U.S. administration. In this view, the Germans were trying to avoid being left out of any Chinese opening to the West.

But, as officials here point out, Bonn's interest in China is not new, and the impetus for the expansion of trade has come as much from the Peking side as from the German.

From 1963 to last year, German-Chinese trade expanded five fold, passing the $250,000,000 point for the first time.

The current year's totals will fall below that sum because of the inability of China, torn by its cultural revolution, to export more.

But figures for the first eight months of this year are already higher than the whole-year totals for 1964, and the final results are expected to be in the neighborhood of $200,000,000 to $225,000,000.

Among the goods that Germany is supplying China are $2,000,000 worth of diesel-hydraulic locomotives, a glass finishing plant worth $3,000,000 a $7,000,000 plastics plant, and a plant for the production of steel pipe that will cost more than $11,000,000.

Despite Moscow's professed fears about a Bonn-Peking axis, the fact remains that German trade with the Soviet Union is by far the largest item in Bonn's Communist world account books — double the Chinese total.

But largely because of political strings, the Bonn-Moscow business has not grown as much as industry and government here had hoped.

Drew Pearson Says Interior Department to Lease Priceless Oil Shale Land

WASHINGTON — The largest undistributed natural resource in the entire nation comes up for partial distribution today (Dec. 20) and what happens could set a pattern for the disposition of $8 trillion worth of shale oil. This mammoth deposit of oil in Colorado, Utah and Wyoming is described as "the greatest package of potential energy on the face of the globe, worth the equivalent of $40,000 to every man, woman and child in the USA."

Both Republicans and Democrats are involved in the efforts by the big oil companies to get their hands on this juicy bonanza. For the first time since Nixon was elected, his law firm is involved.

One of his law partners, Franklin Little, represents Advance Rite Corporation, a diversified company with heavy investments in oil shale lands.

And at the very same time the disposition of oil shale lands is being handled by the Interior Department. Little is handling all details of government transition for the President-elect. This puts him in a position where he can influence every government department, including Interior.

Little was one of Nixon's backstage braintrusts who advised him regarding campaign strategy during the recent election. Though now acting for the new administration, he has not resigned as attorney for his oil shale client.

Line-up of wire pullers
Other politicians are also in positions of power to influence that power. They are:

1. Rep. Wayne Aspinall, D-Colo., elected to Congress as a young progressive but now the darling of the oil industry. Members of the Denver Petroleum Club have contributed generously to his campaign.

2. Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., who has also collected oil contributions and at the same time has introduced legislation to permit oil companies to lease oil shale land for $2.50 an acre. His bill would deprive the taxpayers of royalties estimated as high as $40,000 an acre. Instead they would get $2.50 an acre.

Open for lease bids today are 10,000 acres on the western slope of the Rockies in the Congressional District of Rep. Aspinall.

Aspinall is a powerful Congressman as far as government lands are concerned. He derives his power from having sat in Congress enough years to inherit the chairmanship of the House Interior Committee, which gives him control over all legislation involving the Interior Department. He has used that power to badger, harass, and bully the Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall.

Protecting the Taxpayer.
The oil shale deposits were formed by the gel and silt from vast, freshwater lakes that once covered large areas of Colorado, Utah and Wyoming. They contain ten times more oil than all the world's crude deposits and could bring enough oil royalties into the U.S. Treasury to pay off the entire national debt, also reduce gasoline and fuel oil prices for the consumers.

In the early 1900s, private prospectors began staking claims to the oil shale land until an alarmed Congress in the 1920s reserved the entire area for the U.S. Navy. The oil companies countered by buying up the old claims, including many that had been hastily staked and many that were downright fraudulent.

At first, the Interior Department refused to recognize these fraudulent claims. But in the 1950s the oil companies, which had an "in" with the Eisenhower administration, persuaded the Interior Department to begin recognizing the old, dubious claims.

Apollo Sets Space Pace; 1970-80 Plans Are Needed

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Something very wonderful has happened in the U.S. moon program.

Suddenly there is a new wave of confidence, after more than a year and a half of self-criticism, uncertainty and caution following the January, 1967, Apollo fire in which three astronauts lost their lives.

Some knowledgeable National Aeronautics and Space Administration scientists now privately estimate that this month's Apollo moon-circling mission has an 85 to 90 per cent chance of success — a rating that is very high indeed.

For cautious physicists, this estimate indicates a height of morale more frequently seen in the U.S. Marine Corps.

There is a feeling that the problems have been met and solved, the solutions checked and rechecked to perfection.

This confidence is leading to what insiders call a new drive in the big space organization, from top to bottom. When men begin to have strong confidence in their program, especially after a long period of nagging doubts, the work goes more smoothly; things speed up; the astronauts, engineers and managers frequently catch possible bugs before they show up in tests or breakdowns.

This all adds to the probability of success.

At this writing, it is not yet known whether the Russians will attempt a go at a manned circling of the moon before the U.S. take-off, now scheduled for Dec. 21 (with a moon circling on Christmas). But at this stage of the game, the schedule set and no speedup possible, what the Russians do in this particular month doesn't enter into the picture.

What's needed now is the imagination in the new administration to develop a space program for the coming decade that will hold together the best of the scientific-engineering-planning team

A subsequent government brief charged that Interior employees "acted as agents for relinquishing rather than preserving the rights of the United States."

After the Kennedy administration took over, Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall stopped the giveaway, though still under tremendous pressure.

Seeking a compromise, he proposed last year that leases be granted to developers willing to invest money in research. Although this would preserve rights for the government that the Eisenhower administration has been signing away, the oil companies would still wind up with a windfall.

Udall held up action, despite a bombardment of telephone calls from the powerful Aspinall, until this fall. Then, abruptly, he accepted bids from the oil companies on the 10,000 acres in Aspinall's district.

It is no secret that Aspinall had been holding up the wild-and-scenic rivers bill, which was dear to Udall's heart. This would prevent the encroachment of timber, mining or other interests within approximately 1,300 feet of seven scenic rivers in California, Idaho, Missouri, New Mexico, Oregon and Wisconsin.

By an interesting coincidence, Aspinall released his bill for House action at exactly the same time Udall agreed to consider the oil shale bids.

The oil companies, meanwhile, are looking forward hungrily to January 20 when the former law partner in a firm representing oil shale interests, Richard Nixon, will start making the oil shale decisions.

Note: The oil shale lands originally were set aside for the U.S. Navy and the public by Ray Lyman Wilbur, former president of Leland Stanford University and Secretary of the Interior under Herbert Hoover.

People keep asking, "When are we going to win the war in Vietnam and why not?" Why do we fight them and do business with them elsewhere? I believe I know the answers to these questions.

The reason we are not allowed to win is because of the United Nations. We were once the most powerful nation on earth, and could have dictated the terms of peace to all other nations. But we gave away our rights to world leadership and even our national sovereignty to the U.N.

We are fighting in Vietnam because of our membership in SEATO (Southeast Asia Treaty Organization). It was formed under the auspices of the U.N. We are no longer a free people... our internal affairs, as well as our foreign policy, are dictated by the U.N. Our President is a representative of the U.N., not the American people. Article 25 of the U.N. Charter reads: "Member nations agree to carry out the decisions of the Security Council." Article 43 states: "all members of the U.N. agree to make available to the Security Council, on its call, and in accordance with a special agreement armed forces, assistance and facilities, including rights of passage."

Congress has not declared war. Under the U.N. Charter the Security Council decides when we shall go to war and what measures shall be taken (Articles 39, 41, 42).

We find our nation engaged in a war with an insignificant Communist nation of little more than ten million in far-off Southeast Asia. A nation without wealth or military might. It could be won overnight, if there was the will to win.

Don't you think that the time has come when the American people should take pen in hand and start asking congressmen?

In closing I would suggest that everyone get himself a

Just a little reminder to the warm-hearted people of Ulster County:

Please try to remember this Christmas season our helpless animal friends at the SPCA Shelter on Brabant Road in Kingston.

Also, if brought to the attention of children, I'm sure many of them would prefer a Christmas check be sent for food and shelter to the little puppies and kittens than having the bewildering amount of Christmas toys that Santa brings to so many of them.

Thank you.

Reds Protest West Berlin's Election Plans

BERLIN (UPI)—East German Communists said today West Germany's plans to elect its next president in West Berlin would be "a deliberate, serious provocation."

The official Communist party newspaper Neues Deutschland said the election had no place in West Berlin because the city was "an independent political unit."

East Germany insists West Berlin is not part of West Germany. The city is 110 miles inside Communist East Germany, outside West German territory. That only can be considered a deliberate, serious provocation."

The Soviet news agency Tass Thursday attacked the electoral college as being members of the National Democratic Party (NPD), which has been denounced as neo-Nazi.

Such a meeting in West Berlin would increase European tension, endanger peace and security and expose as lies West German statements that the Bonn government wants peace, Neues Deutschland said.

German Court Convicts Two Former Nazis

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI)—A court today convicted two former Nazi officials of helping send 100,000 mentally and physically handicapped persons to "mercy killing" deaths and sentenced them to prison at hard labor.

Reinhold Vorberg, 64, a Bonn businessman, was sentenced to 10 years and Dietrich Allers, 58, a Hamburg lawyer, to eight years.

Both were officials of the secret T4 agency attached directly to Nazi dictator Adolf Hitler's office. The agency operated a program to rid Nazi Germany of people Hitler considered "unworthy of life and useless mouths to feed."

The verdict ended a 20-month trial that opened in late April of 1967 in which more than 200 witnesses testified. The court heard affidavits from 90 others.

Two other defendants, Gerhard Bohne of the T4 legal staff and Adolf Kaufmann, a former official of Hitler's chancellery, were dropped from the trial because they are ill.

The prosecution had asked a life term for Vorberg who was in charge of the T4 transportation section that hauled busloads of crippled people to buildings where they were gassed to death or killed with medical injections.

Sound of Music in Divorce Court

LONDON (AP) — The tired businessman sitting in the divorce court wasn't thinking about getting a divorce—he was fiddling away blissfully on his $50,000 Stradivarius violin.

London's cathedral-like Divorce Court Building was ringing with classical music the way it does every Tuesday night.

The black-robed lawyers were gone and the sordid details of adultery, desertion and other pangs of failing marriages gave way to the sounds of Haydn and Handel.

Rehearsal Hall

The courthouse corridor is a rehearsal hall for London's Civil Service Orchestra, probably the only amateur group in the world with four owners of Stradivarius violins in the string section.

"We don't bring our Stradivarius along regularly," said Jack Morrison, 68-year-old first violinist. "They are for virtuoso playing, and they are too valuable."

"I brought mine because I just got it and I wanted to show it to the others."

Morrison, chairman of a bank, joined the Stradivarius owners—there are only about 500 of the instruments in the world—last month by bidding 22,000 pounds ($52,800) at an auction for a golden-brown model made in 1709. It was the highest price ever paid for a violin and more than double the previous record of 10,500 pounds ($25,200) for a Strad.

Morrison doesn't seem to find the presence of a quartet of Strads surprising in an orchestra composed mainly of civil servants, bankers and businessmen.

"Lots of business people enjoy music," he observed in a soft, Scots accent.

The other rare instruments in the group belong to business executives Maurice Leigh and two professional violinists, Simon Kuhn and Miss Penelope Howard.

Unlikely Players

Most other musicians in the orchestra come from such unlikely places as the Customs and Excise Department or the Post Office.

Among the second violins are the senior official receiver in bankruptcy of the High Court, Wildred Whitehead, and a lady executive from the Ministry of Education. One viola is the under secretary at the Ministry of Technology, and the amateur leader of the orchestra is the chief superintendent of typists at the Inland Revenue Department.

"It's exciting that Mr. Morrison brought his Stradivarius to a rehearsal," said senior official receiver Whitehead. "But I was so nervous I was afraid to touch it."

New Church— 2-Way Street

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The Roman Catholic churchgoer, long a silent participant in the Sunday Mass, gets an opportunity to express his views at a parish in northeast Portland.

In an experiment designed to involve the layman more fully in the Mass, the traditional sermon has been replaced by dialogue during the noon Mass at All Saints Church, one of the city's largest parishes.

The Rt. Rev. Thomas J. Tobin, pastor of All Saints, says that attendance at the noon Mass in the first two months of the experiment has increased impressively.

More importantly, he says, the dialogue has brought back Catholics who had discontinued regular weekly attendance at Mass. It also has attracted many non-Catholics.

"There are two persons taking convert classes right now" as a result of the dialogue, Msgr. Tobin said.

The dialogue opens with a brief introduction of the topic by the moderator, who is one of the four priests in the parish.

The moderator comes down from the altar with a microphone and when a parishioner volunteers a comment, the moderator passes the microphone to him. The other priests also take part in the dialogue as part of the audience.

Topics have ranged from "The Obligations of Voting" to "What is Real Prayer." One week the dialogue centered on the problem of getting more people involved in the dialogue. It was decided at that session to publish the topic of each Sunday's dialogue in the parish bulletin the previous week.

The topic usually is selected from parishioners' suggestions. In contrast to many Catholic parishes where the priests celebrate Mass, then quickly return to the rectory on Sunday, the parishioners of All Saints have ample opportunity to see the four priests on Sunday.

Msgr. Tobin compared Sunday Mass to a big sale at a department store where all the salesmen are on duty. "The people get to church once a week and the priests should be available to talk with them."

Thus at noon Mass, Msgr. Tobin and his priests take part in the dialogue and afterwards talk to those who were reticent to speak during the Mass. They are usually swamped.

The dialogue also provokes discussion among families as they leave church and later at home.

"The response has been quite good so far," Msgr. Tobin says. He expects other parishes to introduce the dialogue at some Masses.

He doesn't know if the dialogue will replace the sermon at all Masses because of the time problem.

Most Catholic Masses on Sunday last 45 minutes to one hour and are scheduled hourly between 7 and noon to accommodate all the parishioners. The dialogue lengthens the Mass so that one or two of the morning Masses might have to be eliminated. This would strain the seating facilities of most churches.

Mid-Hudson Industrial Official Favors Extending of Toll Area

William K. Hayes, executive vice president of the Mid-Hudson Industrial Association, spoke yesterday at a hearing conducted by the Public Service Commission on a toll-free area for the Mid-Hudson region.

Hayes, speaking in favor of the toll-free area, said:

"The Mid-Hudson Industrial Association is an organization of about 100 companies in the five counties of Dutchess, Greene, Orange, Putnam, and Ulster. Our member firms are in Catskill, Cold Spring, Ellenville, Pawling, Walden, Walkill, Rhinebeck, Newburgh, Saugerties, Kingston, Poughkeepsie, High Falls, and many other localities.

"The very fact that this is so—that manufacturing companies over such a wide area find a common denominator in one, region-wide Association underlines the fact that our Mid-Hudson counties, insofar as industry is concerned, are one community.

"All of these companies face in common the pressing problems of Mid-Hudson—the insufficient modern housing for an industrial work force, no facilities for graduate education, inadequate transportation links with the outside world. All of them are contributing something to a common search for solutions."

"I understand there is considerable opposition to the telephone company's plan from retired persons.

"In my way of thinking, nothing could be more pointless than to allow this issue to become a tug of war between supporters of no defense.

"But rather than fighting a rear guard action in support of an obsolete rate schedule which is against the interests of the community at large, I hope the retired persons will seek relief in another form. This is not a 'do or die' proposition—there are alternatives.

"One suggestion—and I am not endorsing this now, just raising it as a possibility—would be a reduction in the basic monthly service charge for customers over 65 years of age. There is some precedent for this in the partial abatement of taxes on real property for older people.

"We support the extension of the toll free calling area as logical and essential to the health of the Mid-Hudson region," Hayes concluded.

"Many of these companies have the kind of close business relationship among them that is customary among companies living together in one large city—and many of their employees cross county lines to go to work.

"Given this kind of regional interdependence in our economic life, a telephone rate schedule which treats a call from one suburb of the city of Poughkeepsie to another suburb of the same city as a long distance call is clearly as obsolete as the original Dodo bird—and just as unattractive as a Dodo bird for purposes of industrial growth," Hayes said.

"To approve the telephone company's plan is merely to recognize that in terms of the great and growing cohesiveness of the Mid-Hudson community in 1969, it makes no more sense to require a Beacon caller to pay a toll to talk to someone in Poughkeepsie than it would make to the plan on the one hand, and impose a toll charge on a call between two sections of the city of Albany," Hayes continued.

"I understand there is considerable opposition to the telephone company's plan from retired persons.

"In my way of thinking, nothing could be more pointless than to allow this issue to become a tug of war between supporters of no defense.

"But rather than fighting a rear guard action in support of an obsolete rate schedule which is against the interests of the community at large, I hope the retired persons will seek relief in another form. This is not a 'do or die' proposition—there are alternatives.

"One suggestion—and I am not endorsing this now, just raising it as a possibility—would be a reduction in the basic monthly service charge for customers over 65 years of age. There is some precedent for this in the partial abatement of taxes on real property for older people.

"We support the extension of the toll free calling area as logical and essential to the health of the Mid-Hudson region," Hayes concluded.

"Many of these companies have the kind of close business relationship among them that is customary among companies living together in one large city—and many of their employees cross county lines to go to work.

"Given this kind of regional interdependence in our economic life, a telephone rate schedule which treats a call from one suburb of the city of Poughkeepsie to another suburb of the same city as a long distance call is clearly as obsolete as the original Dodo bird—and just as unattractive as a Dodo bird for purposes of industrial growth," Hayes said.

"To approve the telephone company's plan is merely to recognize that in terms of the great and growing cohesiveness of the Mid-Hudson community in 1969, it makes no more sense to require a Beacon caller to pay a toll to talk to someone in Poughkeepsie than it would make to the plan on the one hand, and impose a toll charge on a call between two sections of the city of Albany," Hayes continued.

Wawarsing Car Cleanup Starts for Texas Crusher

ELLENVILLE — The massive cleanup of junk cars has begun in the Wawarsing area in anticipation of the Texas car crusher that will soon be in operation here.

Wawarsing Supervisor Frank W. Harkin made a "personal appeal" yesterday to area residents who have junk cars on their property.

Harkin said that the crusher, owned by the Nationwide Mobile Auto Crusher of Dallas, Tex., would be operating out of the Hall Junk Yard on Berne Road in the village.

He claimed that the junk yard owner, August Hall, had "kindly consented to permit area residents to bring these area residents to this area for assembly and removal by the car crusher."

The first-term Republican supervisor asked residents to "pull tow, drag these old junk cars to this site and we will take it from there."

He asked garage owners and service stations operators to join in the undertaking and he has also asked Highway Superintendent Clifford Marl and Highway Superintendent-elect Kark Fleckstein to "devote several days and also the energies of the town highway department" in the project.

Harkin said that 500 autos have to be assembled at the site to justify the crusher coming into the area, and he claimed that 300 junk cars were already there with "another 50 at the Harry Cass property in Greenfield."

The supervisor said that the crusher would come to Ellenville in a little over two weeks.

The operators of the machine have returned to Dallas for the Christmas holidays.

BLAST SHAKES VEGAS—Las Vegas got a fair shake yesterday when the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) detonated a one megaton thermonuclear bomb at the Nevada Test Site approximately 100 miles north of Las Vegas. This stack of one hundred dollar gaming tokens was tumbled from a table on the 25th floor of the Mint Hotel in downtown Las Vegas. The shock wave hit 33 seconds after the blast. The chips fell 10 to 12 seconds after the first shock wave. The blast was protested by the Howard Hughes organization and by residents of neighboring Utah. The plumb bob in background swayed between five and six inches in each direction. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Dutchess Youth Discharged, Facing Additional Charges

HIGHLAND — A 19-year-old Dutchess County youth who was cited by State Police recently for two vehicle and traffic violations, faced additional charges following his release from Vassar Hospital Thursday.

Thomas James Oell, of 18 Reade Place, Poughkeepsie, was involved in an accident on Route 9W just south of the site of the former traffic circle. He was summoned by troopers for driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated and being an unlicensed driver. Those charges are scheduled to come before Town Justice Lewis DiStasi on Saturday.

On Thursday, Oell was arrested by Trooper G. O. Rehhan on a warrant issued by Marlborough Town Justice Patrick Mataraza. Oell was charged with unlawful use of a motor vehicle. Troopers said the youth allegedly took a car belonging to Earl Dillon of Marlboro Saturday, and later the vehicle was involved in a collision with a truck near here.

Oell appeared before Lloyd Town Justice Linn Baker on the latter charge. He was ordered committed to the county jail pending arraignment before Judge Mataraza Saturday.

Oell was subsequently charged by BCI Investigator Fred Grunewald with a parole violation, and State Parole officers were notified, according to troopers.

Memorial Service Monday For Socialist Leader

HUNTINGTON, N.Y. (UPI)—Socialist leader Norman Thomas, who never won an election but seldom lost a principle, died Thursday in a nursing home. He was 84.

A memorial service was scheduled Monday in New York's Community Church. The remains will be cremated.

Thomas died of a combination of the ailments of old age. He had gone deaf and was nearly blind, but his mind remained clear to the end. He recently finished work on a book, his 15th, which is to be published next year.

His secretary, Timothy Sullivan, and a daughter, Mrs. Polly Miller of Kansas City, Mo., were at the bedside in the Hilaire Farm nursing home.

Other surviving children are Mrs. Rebecca Friebeley of Plainfield, N.J., Mrs. Frances Gates of St. Thomas, V. I., Evan Thomas II of New York and William S. Thomas of Newport, R.I. Thomas had 15 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

His wife, the former Frances Violat Stewart, died in 1947.

Thomas was a crusading reformer who used the mechanism of the political campaign chiefly as a means of publicizing his opposition to war and to all social injustice.

He ran for president six times—in every election from 1928 to 1948—and also was a candidate at various times for governor of New York State and mayor of New York City. It appears unlikely he ever expected to win.

"I am not a disappointed man," Thomas told UPI on his 75th birthday. He pointed out that his Socialist party proposals for unemployment insurance, old-age pensions, health insurance, minimum wage laws and racial integration had become the law of the land.

"America may never have accepted socialism under the banner of a political party," he said, "but it gradually accepted my program."

Car, Deer Hit

Paul Medley of 130 Murray Street, was driving his car on the Strand near the city's sewage treatment plant Thursday night, when a small deer leaped in front of the vehicle and was hit. Medley notified police and the injured deer was destroyed. Medley said he thought it was a doe weighing about 100 pounds.

Man Charged With Theft From Caldor

TOWN OF ULSTER—Charged with petit larceny involving the alleged theft of a portable tape recorder at the Caldor of Kingston, Inc., store on Route 9W, Michael Christoforo, 30, of 54 Yeomans Street, Kingston, was arrested at 3:45 p. m. Thursday by Security Officer Herbert O'Brien.

Christoforo was taken before Ulster Justice Arthur A. Reilly on the shoplifting charge. He requested an adjournment to obtain counsel and Judge Reilly put the case over until Jan. 8, 1969 and fixed bail at $500.

According to O'Brien, the man had the tape recorder valued at $29.88 under his jacket when he was taken into custody. Troopers Robert Molloy and Douglas Lane participated in the investigation.

3 Are Hurt In City Crash

Three persons were injured slightly Thursday afternoon as the result of a three car chain-reaction collision which occurred on Albany Avenue near the Park Diner, according to Kingston police, who investigated several mishaps that resulted from skidding on ice.

The cars involved in the Albany Avenue accident were operated by Elaine Loukas, of 193 Clinton Avenue, Naylor Cooper Jr., 22, Box 16, Ulster Park and Victoria Schwark, 26, of 19 Bayard Street, Port Ewen. The vehicles were westbound at the time of the collision.

Cooper complained of dizziness and whiplash of the neck. Stanley Purdy, of 61 Cedar Street, a passenger in his car received bruises of the left knee. The Port Ewen woman was taken to Benedictine Hospital for X-ray examination, but police reports noted the examination proved negative.

Wayne E. Wolf, 17, of Lucas Avenue Extension, narrowly escaped injury last night when the 1966 sedan he was driving skidded out of control and hit a tree in front of 271 Main Street. He received bruises of the shin.

Kenneth Francis White, 26, of 11 Country Club Drive, Mt. Marion, escaped injury early today when his car skidded out of control and hit a utility pole on West Pierpont Street at McEntee Street, police reported.

Area Schools Near Normal, Despite Flu

NEW PALTZ — While attendance in school districts throughout the county and the state may have been off because of the rash of influenza cases, schools in both the New Paltz and Ellenville Central School Districts have remained about average.

A spokesman at the New Paltz Central School District said that there wasn't any "noticeable" attendance dropoff. The spokesman also said, however, that attendance was off somewhat yesterday. Across the mountains at the Ellenville schools, Central School Superintendent Thomas Hayden said that there had been a relatively high absentee rate since Thanksgiving but that the rate was only running "six to seven per cent higher than normal."

Hayden did say, however, that attendance was higher yesterday than the day before. This stands in marked contrast to the New Paltz State University College where officials recorded an attendance dropoff rate of up to 30 per cent.

An informed source close to the college said that this could be explained by the fact that many of the students live in dormitory situations where the influenza could be expected to spread unchecked.

Classes at the college were called off Wednesday. Both central schools closed today at noon for the traditional Christmas holidays. All three schools will open Jan. 6.

The indictment against Glenn W. Hall was returned by a federal grand jury Wednesday before U.S. District Court Judge James T. Foley.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — City Councilmen reinstated Thursday a one per cent city sales tax that had been in effect during the summer.

Councilmen said they had the choice of reinstating the sales tax or raising the real property tax.

KING TUT REVISITED — These photos, published in the Dec. 11 edition of the Cairo newspaper Ahram, show (L) the head of the 14th century B.C. Egyptian Pharaoh Tutankhamen and (R) the head being measured before being X-rayed. A 33-century-old mystery as to whether or not the king was murdered could be solved as a result of a team's investigation of the mummy. In the photo at right, the head of the team, Prof. Roland Harrison (standing), of Liverpool University, holds a measuring device while Dr. Eric Horace holds the head and Dr. Aly Abdula records the data. The photos were made when the tomb was opened for the second time since Tutankhamen's burial in the Valley of the Kings. The tomb was first opened in 1922. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Brazilian Takeover Vexes U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The assumption of dictatorial powers by the military-backed regime of Brazilian President Arthur Da Costa e Silva has put the United States face to face with one of its toughest Latin American problems in recent years.

Although Brazil's governments in recent years have been military-oriented, Washington felt that they were sufficiently progressive to deserve the nearly $1.4 billion in loans and grants provided by the United States since 1961.

But last week's power grab, the result of military displeasure over the results of a Brazilian congressional vote, is considered by the United States as more serious than previous Brazilian government turnovers.

Besides the concern over the move to the right, U.S. officials say they are also disturbed because the Brazilian generals acted with no apparent thought about relations with Washington.

One part of the dilemma now facing U.S. officials is that they don't want to take any action that would rebound by a severe anti-American reaction in Brazil.

Such American action could result in the withdrawal or exclusion of Brazil from the Alliance for Progress. Without Brazil, the largest and most populous country in Latin America, the Alliance would virtually cease to exist as an important force for social progress.

But these officials say that in the long run the United States has little choice but to disapprove of a dictatorial regime whose principles are completely opposed to those set forth in the Alliance for Progress charter.

"You can't expect to exclude Brazil from any program for Latin America and expect the program to have any universality," one American official said. There are four options open to the U.S. in its dealing with Brazil as officials here see it:

—Devise a way to maintain economic assistance programs with Brazil without giving the impression of supporting the government.

—Try to work around the government, continuing U.S. aid to people type programs by working through other, unofficial sources.

—Change the objectives of the aid program, concentrating only on economic development to the exclusion of social development. —Terminate our Brazilian aid program all together.

A quick answer to the problem seems unlikely in view of the transition period going on in the United States government. Officials are reluctant to take a firm stand at this point, and thus bind the incoming Nixon administration to a policy it may not agree with.

Amelia D. Narel Weds Daniel B. Elkins; Vows Exchanged in St. John's Church

MRS. DANIEL B. ELKINS (Lakeside Studio)

Mr. and Mrs. Aleksander Narel of West Hurley, N.Y., announce the marriage of their daughter Amelia Dorothy, to Daniel Byron Elkins of Kingston, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Edward Elkins of Plattsburgh, N.Y.

Marriage vows were exchanged in St. John's R. C. Church, West Hurley at 11 a.m. on Saturday, Dec. 14, 1968 with the Rev. Maurice Walsh, pastor, officiating. Altar boy was John O'Connell of West Hurley and Mrs. Helen Ling of Bloomington, a family friend, was organist.

Pedestal baskets and gold vases filled with traditional wedding flowers were placed at the main and side altars.

Because of the long illness of the bride's father, only members of the immediate families and close personal friends attended the private church ceremony and a champagne reception afterwards at the Tiano residence in Woodstock.

The bride was escorted to the foot of the altar by Charles J. Tiano where her father then gave her in marriage.

Her empire gown of white Skinner crepe was a Mathilda Miuccio creation. It was styled with an open jewel neckline, long tapered sleeves and a full A-line skirt. A matching Dior bow held the bride's veil of silk illusion. Her only jewelry was a 180-year old string of heirloom pearls from Holland. She carried a cascade of white miniature carnations with English ivy.

Miss Barbara Alma Narel attended her sister as maid of honor and Miss Nina Allison Tiano, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Tiano, served as junior attendant. Their empire gowns of turquoise Ottoman were accented with white fur headpieces and sprays of miniature rosebuds on white fur muffs.

John D. Elkins of Kingston was best man for his brother. Serving as usher was Keith Jordan of West Hurley.

Special blessings were received by the couple from the Rev. Justyn Marewski, pastor at the world famous Shrine of Our Lady of Ciestochowa in Jasna Gora, Poland. In honor of the marriage, a mass was celebrated on the same day at the Shrine with the Rev. Father Marewski as celebrant.

The bride, an OCS alumna, will be graduated from Ulster County Community College in June 1969 with an Associate Degree in Liberal Arts. She has been employed part-time as an artist by the Kingston Daily Freeman in the Display Advertising Department.

Mr. Elkins, a printer by profession, is also employed by the Kingston Daily Freeman and studies at UCCC.

Pre-nuptial parties for the bride were given by Mrs. Anthony Pizzarelli, West Hurley; Mrs. Charles J. Tiano, Woodstock; Mrs. J. Harvey O'Connell, West Hurley; and by the distaff members of The Freeman.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST

The Art of Gift Giving

I am going to devote my next two weekend columns to gift giving. Although it is not necessarily directed toward Christmas presents, some of the ideas will be helpful for the holiday season. Today's article presents the more negative side of the picture — next week's will give you a more encouraging view and some specific gift suggestions.

A gift, above all, should be an expression of affection. Its size and its cost are unimportant. The thought that goes into its choice — the consideration for the one receiving it — is what makes a gift worthwhile.

Unfortunately, some of us have lost sight of the meaning of gifts — the simple act of giving a present because we wish to. Americans, who are naturally generous, have been convinced by commercial organizations, from tiny gift shops to enormous mail order enterprises, that gifts are necessary, expected, required and prescribed — for every conceivable occasion. This concept has become so accepted that otherwise well-mannered people think nothing of indirectly — even directly — requesting gifts, if not for themselves, for their daughters, their husbands, their parents or their friends.

I am constantly besieged with letters from people who are confused or resentful about the continual hand-out. One young lady wrote, "We received an invitation from a couple we know who have lived in their house for over a year. Should they have a housewarming now — a year later?" I know what she was thinking, and she was right! An invitation to a "housewarming" given a year after moving, can only be a poorly-disguised excuse for gift-gathering.

Years ago, the idea of giving a gift of money was unthinkable. It would have been considered an insult — an implication that the receiver was in need of charity. Not so, now. A surprised lady wrote, "I received an invitation to a silver anniversary which read 'In lieu of a gift, please send six dollars per person (twelve dollars per couple).'"

This party was being given by the couple's daughter! Aside from the reaction of the anniversary couple, who would surely prefer a more permanent remembrance of the occasion, could anything be in poorer taste than to suggest to a guest the amount he should give, regardless of his ability or his closeness to the recipient? The cost of a gift might be far less than six dollars, but the sentiment, and the value as a memento, would be worth infinitely more.

Then there are those who feel they have to give something but never give a thought to the feelings of the receiver. One young lady gave her friend a bottle of cologne and a book on skin-and-hair care for her birthday. She wrote to me when she failed to get an enthusiastic response, wondering if she had insulted her friend.

Another young lady started out in the proper spirit but ended up being more interested in advertising her skill as a potter than in her friend's table setting. She generously made a set of ceramic plates for a birthday present, but then put her own initials in the center!

GOP Women Host Golden Agers

Mrs. Frederick Stang, president of the Ulster County Women's Republican Club, extended greetings of the holiday season to 90 members of the Golden Age Club of the YWCA attending the annual Christmas party on Wednesday, Dec. 11, in the Crystal Room of the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The evening's festivities opened with Mrs. Raymond LeFever reading a portion of one of Peter Marshall's most inspiring and memorable sermons, Let's Keep Christmas, which is an expression of gratitude that the Christ child came into the world and a plea that "we keep Christmas in all the loveliness of its ancient traditions."

Many of the Golden Agers found the rhythm of the Mello-Tones, a band from Olivebridge under the direction of Helmut Salewski, enjoyable and danced to polkas, waltzes and fox trots. Don, Dick and Helmut played a medley of Christmas songs and carols and guests sang. The club is most appreciative of this group donating their time for this portion of the program made possible through the Musician's Local Union No. 215, AFM, trust fund. The Collegiate sang such favorites as Winter Wonderland, Do-Re-Mi, On a Clear Day, White Christmas, Silver Bells, O Holy Night and Silent Night! Solos included Jeneata Reynolds, Almost There and I've Gotta Be Me; Pam Benitez, Ipanema; and Sue Doyle, a new member of the group this year. Hello Young Lovers and Scarlet Ribbons. Pianist for the group, Jo-Ann Brudniak, played Sleigh Ride. The club expressed its appreciation to the group of young women. The program ended with the old and traditional reading by Marguerite C. Derringer of Clement C. Moore's The Night Before Christmas. Refreshments were served and guests were presented with gifts.

The January meeting of the Ulster County Women's Republican Club will be the installation of the following officers for the year 1969. They were elected on December 11 and are Mrs. Thomas Hanrahan, president; Mrs. Robert Davidson, first vice-president; Mrs. Albert Kurd, second vice-president; Mrs. Marguerite C. Derringer, third vice-president; Mrs. William Costello, fourth vice-president; Mrs. Sophia Wierse, treasurer; Mrs. Oliver Tweedy, secretary and Mrs. Abel Ellsworth, corresponding secretary.

'FOOTSIE' SOLITAIRE

If your feet are the neglected part of your anatomy, start paying more attention to them. One important aspect of foot care, which is not only beauty-wise, but health-wise, is a good pedicure. This means filing your toenails straight across, not rounding them on the edges. Clip hang nails, and keep your toenails short.

Look Here Homemaker

Are you concerned, as I am, about the 5 signs in Christmas? asks Phyllis W. Barlow, Extension Home Economist.

The holiday season in our Judeo-Christian culture is a time for the giving of gifts, the strengthening of family and friendship ties — a time to look inward and outward and upward. It is a time to measure the quality of human existence and reaffirm our common goal of "Peace on Earth, Goodwill among Men."

We give thanks that we do have money with which to buy gifts for loved ones, and that we have some that we share with others less fortunate than ourselves. But we also pause to think about the gifts it is in our power to give that money can't buy. Money can't buy an important sense of belonging to people who care very much about us. It can't buy friendship and love. It can't buy everyday good manners, courtesy and consideration. It can't buy sincerity and honesty in human relations. It can't buy gratitude for the gift of life.

The gifts that give quality to human existence come from within each one of us as we act and react with one another, as we give and take. By word and deed, we as homemakers are responsible for the quality of our family's living and loving.

May we all experience the richness of exchanging gifts that money can't buy as we partake of the abundance of holiday giving.

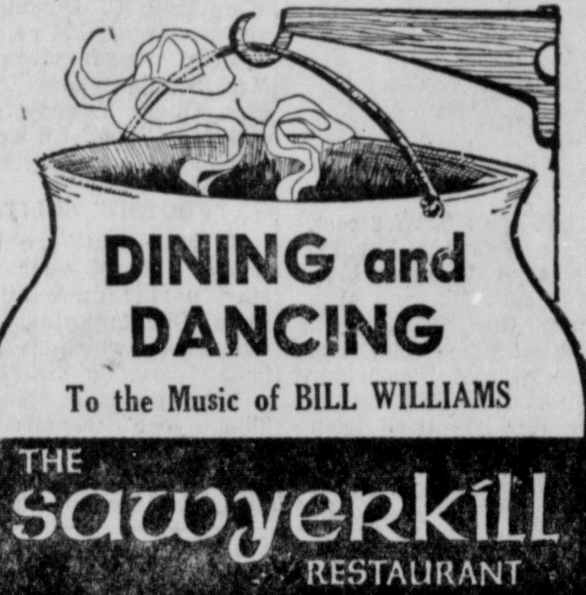

ANYONE FOR DOUBLES?—Carmen and Gene Massa, pictured with toys in center, had a sixth birthday party on December 17. Hints from Heloise

Dear Gals: envelope I mark the amount of do is lift the flap and note the each bill. When I get ready to amount. write my checks, all I have to amount. Mrs. A. G.

Do you roll up your hair at night and can't stand to sleep on those rollers? Plus sometimes it seems that the bottom part of your hair from the ears down needs a new perm. Yet there's no need to get one when the top and sides are still good.

Well, here's something that works for me:

Instead of putting the shower cap over all your hair when you take a tub bath or shower, first brush your hair, part the top, pull it up and fasten either with a comb or a clip. Then put only the top part inside the shower cap.

The straggly bottom part will be left hanging down. These ends will get just enough moisture in 'em so you can use hair clips or bobby pins to roll 'em up!

Also you can sleep on these hair clips or bobbies the whole night through and they don't make an indentation or hurt your head as a roller does.

This is also a good idea when you want to redo it in the middle of the week. You can hold your hair brush under the water faucet, shake it out real good and literally brush this lower part of your hair from the bottom up. Then twist it in curls, get under your hair dryer and it's even quicker. You don't have to dampen your head.

If the holes in your kitchen sink drain are too large, remove the top of a scouring can, through two of the holes for easy handling.

The top fits right in most drains and keeps small things from going down the large holes.

Dear Heloise:

This is especially for those with tiny freezers, like mine.

When I go shopping, I reserve the top folding part of my shopping cart just for frozen foods. This way I know exactly how much to buy and don't end up cooking extra because it won't fit in my small freezer.

INSTANT HAIRSET

For girls on the go, an instant hairset kit, with pre-heated rollers that curl hair in a matter of minutes is just the thing to keep you looking perfect for that last-minute date.

HAIRDO AIRINESS

To "fan" hair into frills or ripples, catch a few strands around the brush and twist your wrist quickly with an outward motion. Fanning adds airiness and height to a short, curly coiffure.

Woodstock Group's Plan On 3-Town Dump Woe

WOODSTOCK — A new proposal to solve the dump problems of Woodstock, Saugerties and Shandaken has been put forth by a group of Woodstock citizens who have discussed the matter "informally" with some members of the town board.

The plan calls for the joint building of an incinerator by the three towns and the interim joint use of the Woodstock Town landfill operation.

Peter Grad and other citizens responsible for investigating the idea say they wish to do it co-operatively with the town board and emphasize that the proposal, as it now stands, is merely "a tentative thought." Grad points out that the group is presently looking into the costs of such a venture, and until all facts are in, hesitates to make any firm proposals.

Meanwhile, the group contends that the incinerator plan may be preferable to the landfill operation because should Woodstock allow Saugerties and Shandaken to use its facility, "the long-range effect would be disastrous." Instead of a 10- to 15-year use potential, the facility would be limited to about three to five years, they claim.

Praising the town for its foresight in purchasing land for a public dump, Grad cautions that letting others come in on the operation would leave it useless in a short time. He suggests that the facility only be rented with a firm commitment that the towns that use it agree to later join in the building of an incinerator.

Area Groups Thanked

Freeman Readers Lauded for Wassaic Aid

Daniel J. Leahy, executive director of Ulster County Association for Retarded Children, praised Kingston Freeman readers for their support and concern for the well-being of 4,000 holiday gifts for 2,000 friendless patients at this state school for the mentally retarded.

Leahy said, "I was greatly impressed by the concern shown by the Kingston Freeman and its readers, when Wassaic State School was next in the chain of workstoppage by state hospital workers, by the enthusiastic response of volunteers who flooded our office with calls."

On behalf of the institution's committee, Leahy also praised the people who brought nearly a thousand gifts to the office and drop off places, to be given as gifts to the patients. "These holiday gifts bring much happiness to the Wassaic patients," Leahy added.

Particular thanks is given to Beta Sigma Phi, Eta Eta Chapter of Woodstock, West Hurley Girl Scout Troop 79, Saugerties Junior Girl Scout Troop 133, the membership of Krumville Reformed Church, Girl Scout Troop 142 and Brownie Troop No. 135, New Paltz.

U.S. Communicable Disease Center Supplies Data About Hong Kong Flu

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Head ache and muscles sore? Fever? Sore throat?

You're just one of thousands suffering from the current outbreak of influenza.

It may be the new and fashionable Hong Kong variety or just the old fashioned flu. You won't be any more or less miserable with one type than with another.

And if you're a normal, healthy adult you'll probably recover without lasting ill effects.

The National Communicable Disease Center has provided information to answer the many questions about the disease. They include:

Q. How do I know I have the flu?

A. The only sure way is a laboratory test, since a number of viruses and bacteria can cause symptoms similar to influenza. Tests have shown that much of the current outbreak of respiratory illnesses is due to A2 or Hong Kong flu.

Q. What's the difference?

A. There are two major types of influenza—A and B. What is officially known as A2 (Hong Kong) is a new strain of the A type virus. It was first identified in Hong Kong, so that's how it was named. Since it is a new strain, people are more susceptible to it.

Q. How can I avoid catching the flu?

A. It's not easy, since virus particles are spread through the air when a victim coughs, sneezes, laughs or even talks. These viruses are in fluids in the nose and mouth of persons infected with influenza. So the best way to avoid getting the flu is to stay out of crowds and stay away from anyone coughing or sneezing.

Q. What are symptoms and treatment?

A. Symptoms are fever, chills, headache, sore throat, cough and soreness and aching in the back and limbs. You may have some or all these symptoms. No known medicine will cure influenza, but antibiotics are often used to combat complications. Treatment includes rest in bed, keep warm, drink plenty of fluids and check with a doctor.

Q. Can I be vaccinated against Hong Kong flu?

A. A new vaccine has been developed specifically for Hong Kong flu, but it is recommended primarily for elderly persons and those with chronic illnesses. However, doctors generally do not recommend mass inoculations against influenza.

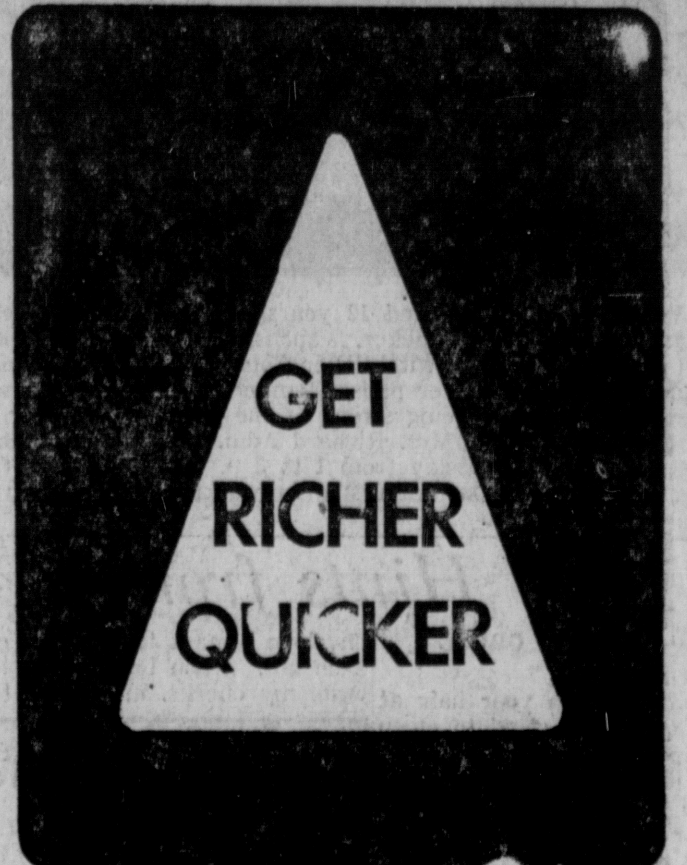

Q. What about after effects?

A. Although influenza can be fatal, often because of complications, a bout with the disease is unlikely to cause lasting harm to a normally healthy adult.

Q. What are my chances of having flu?

A. An estimated 10-15 per cent of the general population will probably have flu. In places where people are crowded together, the rate will be higher.

So you have a much better than even chance of not getting it.

'Silent Night' 150 Years Old This Christmas

SALZBURG, Austria (AP) — This Christmas "Silent Night, Holy Night" is 150 years old. Saturday at the tiny Austrian village of Oberndorf, Chancellor Josef Klaus will place a wreath in the chapel which replaced the church where the song was first heard in 1818. Singing groups from seven nations will pay tribute to the song at a ceremony Sunday in the Salzburg Grosses Festspielhaus, the great festival hall. The singers include the St. John's University men's choir from Collegeville, Minn., the Luxembourg Madrigal Choir and the West German singing group of Bad Aigen. Teacher Franz Gruber wrote the music and priest Josef Mohr wrote the words for the Christmas song.

Family Court Judge Indians' Speaker

Family Court Judge Hugh R. Elwyn spoke at a meeting of the parents, directors, committee and Mothers' Club of the Troop 12 B.S.A. Indians and the Kingston Indians Drum and Bugle Corps. Thursday, in Bethany Hall of the Old Dutch Church. As Judge Elwyn addressed himself to the problem of juvenile delinquents in our times, he noted that a child born into this world is by nature selfish and self-centered, wanting what he wants when he wants it, oblivious to the needs and desires of those about him, except as they satisfied his own desires. To delay the meeting of his demands, even for a few moments, usually consummated in temper tantrums, that if they were expressed in a teenager, in the same uncontrolled manner, would be terrifying endangering to the life and safety of everyone around him. In his role as Family Court Judge, he remarked that the juvenile delinquents, otherwise known by the term "PINS" (Persons in need of supervision) who come before him, are usually painfully lacking in self-control, have little or no respect for designated authority, parental or civil, have no religious training, and have never been exposed to the experience of participating in organized clubs, such as the Boy Scouts of America Kingston Indians, or its smaller brothers, the Troop 12 Indians Drum and Bugle Corps. He complimented the Corps Directors, Committee and Parents for their sacrificial dedication in providing the Kingston area with such a worthwhile and outstanding opportunity for the young people.

Tri-Level Home
Very Functional

By JACK McEENEY

A real test of tri-level design is the functional quality of each level in a well integrated pattern in which three levels are used to provide the overall service for efficient living, and at the same time co-ordinate the whole layout into a home of comfort and charm. "The Betterview" design is unique inasmuch as it permits construction on level ground as well as a lot that slopes to the rear.

Focal point is the living room with sloping cathedral ceiling and half-stair up to the balcony entrance providing access to the three rear bedrooms on the upper level. The distinct separation of bedrooms from the rest of the houses is one of the important features, since it adds to privacy.

The three bedrooms are comfortable and roomy, with corner windows that assure good ventilation and natural lighting. Each has good closet space featuring sliding doors.

The activities room, which is reached by a short flight of stairs from the kitchen, has dimensions of 13x26 with the remainder of this area used as laundry and heater room.

The areas of "The Betterview" come to 1,030 square feet, the garage adding another 220 square feet.

Plans show how to construct with frame, brick, concrete block or stone, and are available at moderate cost by using the accompanying coupon.

Sparkling Kalanchoes

Compact kalanchoe plants with their small but sparkling red flowers make attractive decorations for a holiday buffet table. They also look well on either side of a mantel. Keep them in their clay pots and use matching saucers for a finished look. Since kalanchoes belong to the succulent family and need less water than other flowering plants, let the soil in their clay pots dry out before adding additional moisture.

Gift Plant

One large-size foliage plant is a much-welcomed hostess gift. A four or five-foot green plant in a ten or 12-inch clay pot, complete with matching saucer, is a decorative problem solver for awkward living or dining room corners. Of the popular and long-lasting greens, choose a schefflera, a bark-supported philodendron or a palm plant.

Potted Tree

For a small apartment or home, try a potted Christmas tree. Evergreen shrubs planted in eight or ten-inch clay pots make excellent floor-standing or table-sized trees. When using matching saucers, be sure they are treated and no longer porous, to protect floors and table surfaces.

Clay Pot Care: A Few Easy Tips

Your Christmas and holiday gift plants will give longer-lasting beauty and enjoyment if you observe a few easy care tips to insure their health.

To guard against over-watering and over-heating, it's essential to keep them in porous clay pots, used by leading professional growers and florists to insure that you receive plants of the highest quality. The porous sides of clay pots are a major help in solving the problem of over-watering. Clay dissipates excess moisture and leaches out harmful salts.

If plants in clay pots are occasionally over-watered, the pot walls automatically drain off excess moisture that might otherwise drown your plant. This is particularly important for poinsettias, which prefer somewhat drier conditions than most plants.

It's best to water flowering plants such as azaleas during daylight each day so that the soil is well moistened, but not soaked or muddy. Florists often supply tags or other useful information on watering. Between waterings plants should be allowed to dry out so that the soil on top is barely moist to the touch.

If you place your clay-potted plants in decorative watertight containers or jardiniere, you should pour off excess water and not allow it to accumulate, since plant roots may become waterlogged and drown.

The Green Thumb

ARE CUT FLOWERS HARMFUL INDOORS? Elderly folks and many sick people often wonder if cut flowers or plants are harmful to patients in the home or in the hospital. Many feel they are and will remove them from the room at night. Aside from possible allergies, there is no truth to the idea that these plants will rob the patient of oxygen. The nurse entering the room to remove the flowers uses more oxygen than the room filled with plants would use during the entire night. Likewise, the plants or cut flowers in the home have no harmful effect on the air we breathe. The truth is these plants are actually beneficial because they remove carbon dioxide (human waste product) and give off moisture and oxygen (needed for life).

EVERBEARING RED RASPBERRY: Most home gardeners are familiar with the performance of everbearing raspberries such as Indian Summer and September. Both of these have been excellent. Another ever-bearer of recent introduction and worthy trial in your garden is the Fall Red, introduced in 1964 by the University of New Hampshire.

Friends who have grown this say it is earlier in ripening than other everbearers. The second crop starts to ripen in Mid-August, and from this date until killing frost the bushes are loaded with high quality fruit. It also produces a large regular crop which ripens around the 1st of July. One nurseryman tells me it will produce full crops of fruit after wintering in 25 below zero temperatures. Why not try a few of these hardy everbearers in your backyard this coming year?

Also, if you're willing to try something a bit different in the line of raspberries, how about one with golden fruit? Amber is a good one to try. Berry is large and juicy. Plants are unusually tall, vigorous and upright.

POINSETTIA PLANTS: If the leaves on your plants start to curl, turn yellow and drop, blame it on dry soils, hot dry air, a lack of light, or old age of the plant itself. Poinsettias like a uniform supply of moisture, a cool bright window and a low night temperature. You'll get more mileage from your plant if you move it to a cool room at night (60 degrees).

GREEN THUMB CLINIC: A reader writes: "Please tell me what care our shrimp plant likes."

Answer: Give it plenty of sun, away from radiators, and do not let the soil dry out. They like plenty of water. You can start new plants from cuttings rooted in a pot of moist sand.

Letter to Santa

The Gift List for Some Politicians in State

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Few people realize it, but Santa Claus is an expert politician. He has no equal.

He has no worries about job security and doesn't come under New York State's Taylor Law. He campaigns once a year, and then at night, and gets all the votes. He manages his own campaign, his press relations are the best and he has relatively small election expenses. Although everyone votes for him, he caters mostly to non-voters. People over 21 have great affection for him but there are times when they regard him, somewhat secretly, as a financial liability.

Being an ageless person, Santa has no desires for pensions or retirement.

This being the time of year for giving, we hope Santa will bring:

Governor Rockefeller: A balanced budget, no additional tax problems and plenty of friends in the 1969 legislature, which he'll need.

Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea: About 10 cooperative Democrats in the next legislature, whom he also is sure to need.

Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson: More of the same kind of patience he has had for the past 20 years.

Democrats Moses Weinstein and Stanley Steingut: A "shake hands and come out fighting" spirit on Jan. 8.

Former Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia: A Happy

New Year to go with the one sure chest like the one Rockefeller had this year, even though he lost the nomination to Nixon.

Albany County Democrats: A large supply of aspirins to ease the pains of recent events.

Albany County Republicans: A larger supply of aspirins to ease the pain of events to come.

Senate Minority Leader Joseph Zaretzki: A second chance to 1970 state budget.

swap seats with Sen. Earl Brydges, without Republican help.

Senate Majority Leader Brydges: A scrap book for cartoons or maybe a sun lamp.

Senate and Assembly finance committees: Some sharp pencils, scissors, and a Fearless Fostick approach to the 1969

ON WANTED LIST — Richard Lee Tingle Jr., charged with six brutal gunshot murders in Ohio, has been added to the FBI's list of Ten Most Wanted Men and is the object of a nationwide manhunt. Tingle was reportedly born Dec. 2, 1940, at Portsmouth, O. He is 5' 8" tall, weighs 145 pounds, has blue eyes, blond hair, a slender build and a medium complexion. He has scars on his chest, left arm and left wrist and bears the tattoo "RT" on his left forearm. The suspect reportedly has a southern accent and has reputedly dressed as a woman and acted as a female impersonator. Tingle should be considered armed and extremely dangerous. Any information about him should be reported, immediately to the nearest office of the FBI. (FBI PHOTO VIA UPI TELEPHOTO).

Inaugural Not for The Birds

WILMETTE, Ill. (AP) — Joe Fink, the unsung hero of four presidential inaugurations, has completed his vital part in preparations for the next one.

So that President-elect Nixon and his entourage won't need umbrellas Jan. 20, Fink has bird-proofed the inaugural parade route between the White House and the Capitol.

"Otherwise, the starlings would cause the dignitaries to lose some of their dignity," observed Fink, 63, of Wilmette, in an interview.

He and eight workers spent 12 days spraying the 100 trees along Pennsylvania Avenue with 2,000 gallons of a chemical he invented 22 years ago and produces at his National Bird Control Laboratory.

"It's a nonpoisonous chemical which deters birds from landing," said Fink. It irritates their feet.

His $10,000 contract with the inaugural committee guarantees to keep starlings away from Pennsylvania Avenue for at least four months.

Until Fink came to the rescue, the birds used to disturb inauguration festivities and parade participants.

"Thousands upon thousands of birds attended those parades," Fink said. "You couldn't see the sky for them. Trees along the route were littered with them."

Spectators in stands under the trees had to raise umbrellas for protection, he said.

"Then in 1953 the Department of Parks asked us for a demonstration," Fink recalled. "They'd tried everything but nothing worked. Nobody thought we'd work, either. But the next day every tree around was covered with birds except those trees we'd treated. And the next day we got the assignment for President Eisenhower's inauguration."

This inauguration will be the first one for which Fink will be on hand to observe the results of his handiwork.

"I'm holding final inspection Jan. 10 so I think I'll stick around for it," he said. "I was never able to make it to the others, although I was always invited."

Indian Tribes Split Over Bridge Battle

MASSENA, N.Y. (AP) — Indians from across New York continued to file into a longhouse on the St. Regis Reservation early today as their leaders struggled to make peace with the Canadian government. The leaders reportedly were at odds over the question of how to press their demands that Canada honor a 1794 treaty that gave Indians free access across the border.

Some of the many chiefs assembled, speaking through the haze that covered the longhouse and its kerosene lamps and wooden stoves, advocated a chance to deal with the problem.

Others urged more demonstrations such as the one Wednesday in which 47 Indians were arrested as they attempted to block passage on the International Bridge that connects the United States and Canada. Thursday, the chiefs of the six nations of the Iroquois Confederacy, led by the confederacy's chief, 53-year-old Leon Shenandoah Sr., were called to the reservation to discuss the problem. Many leaders remained up at an incident late Wednesday in which a sniper's bullet crashed through the window of a Canadian customs station and killed a guard.

Alec Gray, a chief of the Mohawk tribe that lives on the reservation, welcomed the visitors as they arrived, many of them dressed partly in traditional Indian clothes — such as beaded shirts, headdresses and medicine belts — and partly in clothes designed to ward off the near-zero cold.

As they entered the ancient longhouse, the members of the six nations took their places on the two tiers of wooden benches that surround the inside of the building. Their words were spoken in the tongue of their tribe, and several Indians complained that they did not understand the many dialects. The Indians also were waiting for the arrival of New York City attorney Omar Ghashy who was flying to Massena to attend the arraignment of the Indians arrested Wednesday.

Ghashy also was expected to advise the Indians on the legality of their claim that Canada should honor the Jay Treaty of 1794 made between the United States and Great Britain. The treaty — reaffirmed in 1812 — does not apply to Canada, Canadian officials say, because Canada did not become a nation until 1867 and it has never ratified the document.

Expect Papal Warning On Youthful 'Anarchy'

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI has become increasingly concerned with the growing student rebellion throughout the world. Vatican sources said today. They said it will show in his Christmas message.

The Pope will warn against youthful "anarchy" in the annual Christmas message to the world's 600 million Roman Catholics over the worldwide Vatican radio, the sources said.

The Christmas message is at least three days earlier than on previous years. Vatican sources said it was because the Pope wants to leave time before the holiday to announce names of new Cardinals he is appointing. The Pope has become increasingly concerned over youthful rebellion and those who take "the recourse to violence and anarchy" among students not only in Italy but France, the United States and other nations, the sources said.

The Pope two days ago proclaimed Jan. 1, 1969, as "World Day of Peace" and appealed to men everywhere to negotiate for peace. "Peace must be willed," he said. "Peace must be loved. Peace must be produced."

The Pope will receive two Roman orphans who will bring figures of the Christ child for him to bless Sunday morning and will bless such figures brought by other children in St. Peter's Square for the Pope's Sunday noon appearance from his window.

Cardinals and officials of the Roman Curia will call on the pontiff Monday to extend Christmas greetings and he was expected to respond with a speech reviewing the past year's activities of Roman Catholicism.

On Christmas eve the Pope will fly to Taranto, a southern Italian port city, to say midnight mass at a steel mill. He will return to Rome in time to hold Christmas morning mass in St. Peter's and impart the traditional blessing "Urbi et orbi" (To the city and to the world.)

Narcotics Guidance Council Planned in Wawarsing Area

ELLENVILLE — A narcotics guidance council will soon be created in the Wawarsing area to combat the mounting problem of drug addiction and experimentation among the young.

The decision to create such a council, which will work closely with the New York State Narcotics Bureau, was made yesterday during a meeting between Mayor Eugene Glusker, Wawarsing Supervisor Frank W. Harkin and Ellenville Central School Superintendent Thomas Hayden.

The Town and Village Boards along with the area's Board of Education will meet in a closed session Jan. 13 to actually set up the organization.

According to state regulations as set down by the state's narcotics bureau, the council must contain one clergyman, one attorney, one physician and two responsible citizens.

Supervisor Harkin indicated that the makeup of the council "may be named that night" Jan. 13.

Recently, meetings on local narcotics problems was held at the Ellenville High School—one meeting, aimed at students, was held in the afternoon, and another was held in the evening primarily for adults.

According to reports, the meeting demonstrated that the problem was serious enough to warrant the setting up of a guidance council.

A usually informed source asserted that the meeting between all three boards was historically unique.

Rifton Firemen Host Christmas Party on Sunday

RIFTON — Children of this area have a real treat in store for them Sunday afternoon, when the Rifton Fire Company will hold the annual Christmas party for all youngsters of the community.

Fire Commissioner John J. O'Connor said the event will start at 1 p.m. when Santa Claus appears to meet and talk with all the children, who will have an opportunity to tell him what they want for Christmas.

Candy and toys will be distributed at the firehouse where the party will be held.

Assisting on the committee in charge of arrangements will be Fire Chief Walter Bailey and Harold Bailey, and other members of the department.

The committee has invited all children to be at the fire hall when Santa arrives.

First Since Ike's DaysSurplus for Federal Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says the federal budget will show a surplus for the current fiscal year, the first time since the Eisenhower administration that the government's books will be written in black ink.

And there will be more money on hand than spent in fiscal 1970 as well, the President indicated Thursday in a brief statement from Bethesda Naval Hospital where he is recovering from the flu.

The President said the effect of a surplus should help ease the problem of inflation now troubling the nation's economy. "It is needed to curb excessive pressures on demand," the statement said.

How Much?
Although the President's statement didn't say how much of a surplus is expected for this year, sources indicated it would be in the neighborhood of $1 billion.

This compared with Johnson's original budget projection issued last January of an $8 billion dollar deficit for the 1969 fiscal year, which ends next June 30.

The President's estimate was cut steadily during the year and in November government officials said the deficit probably would be $3 billion.

Budget Director Charles J. Zwick, commenting on Johnson's announcement, said that federal expenditures are now expected to match a government estimate issued in September of about $184.4 billion, or $1.7 billion less than the original January figures.

Since the administration expects to have a $1 billion surplus, tax receipts should run about $185.4 billion, or $6 billion higher than the September forecast.

The last time the budget showed a surplus was in fiscal 1960 when the government books showed $213 million more taken in than spent.

Speaking of the 1970 fiscal budget, Johnson said that "I hope it will be possible to submit a budget in January which will continue this small surplus."

For fiscal 1970, which will be the first full year for President elect Nixon to work at controlling the economy, President Johnson is expected to submit a budget of between $195 billion and $200 billion.

Officials figure, on the basis of this estimate, that the Johnson administration expects Nixon to continue the 10 per cent income tax surcharge. This, along with a general business boom, is given much of the credit for producing the extra money that resulted in the predicted current surplus.

SITE OF FAMILY MURDER—Fireman inspects charred remnants of gutted room in home of Charles Bray. In what authorities think may be the worst mass murder-suicide in California history, Bray apparently went berserk, shot and killed 6 of his children, turned his house into a blazing funeral pyre, then shot and killed himself as the bodies—doused with gasoline—burned. A 7th child escaped death because he was out on his newspaper route. Bray's wife, Sylvia, 37, had filed for divorce Wednesday, then spent the night with a woman friend. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Maroon Charts Rough Voyage for Admirals

By DENNIS CARO
Freeman Sports Staff

"They're a coming team," Kingston High School basketball coach Jack Gilligan said of tonight's opponent, Arlington.

"They're improving each time out," he said, "and they should be tough. The key to their game will be Rittenger."

Bud Rittenger, Arlington's six-foot-three and a half inch junior center, is the only starter over six feet tall, which on the whole is nothing new for the Admirals.

Last year they also had only one starter over the six foot marker, but that one was giant center Scott McCandlish, who at last count measured a little over 82 inches and was averaging 21 points a game for the University of Virginia freshmen.

Rittenger's feet aren't big enough to fill McCandlish's sneakers, but with three of last season's five starters back he will have experienced, albeit small hands to help him out.

Dellos Is Key Man

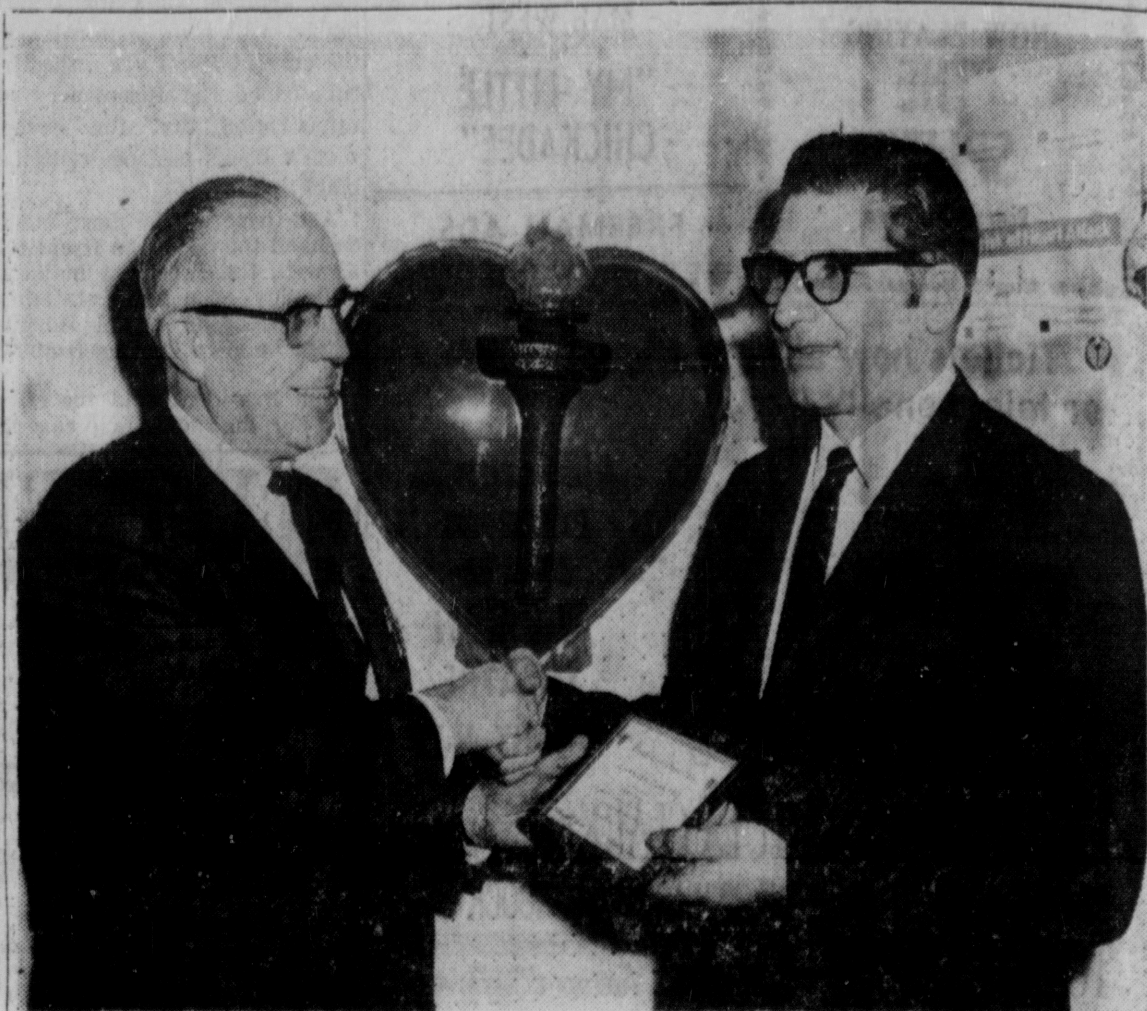

Dave Dellos, a five-foot-six inch guard who plays the point on the Admirals zone offense, probably has the best hands on the team and averages enough steals and fast breaks per game to keep him in double figures despite his relatively weak outside shot.

Ken Sawyer and Mark Hinsch, both about 5'11" tall, are expected to provide the bulk of Arlington's offensive thrust.

On defense, the Admirals are partial to the man-to-man, but are weak when they go to a press.

Kingston, coming off a strong win over highly rated Valley Central, has been averaging 62 points a game, a much faster clip than the 0-2 Admirals. The Maroons have, however, been giving up points at about the same rate as their scoring output.

Onteora's Tomahawks Ready For Shear Job at Wallkill

The undefeated Indians of Onteora Central School are currently leading the pack in the Ulster County Athletic League with a 3-0 mark, a fact that does not figure to change (except for the number of wins) when they travel to Wallkill tonight.

The Wallkill nickname is Indians too, but they come from a tribe that bears no relation to the Rod Patrick coached Onteora squad.

Coach Gene Bilboa has brought his boys to the post five times this year, four in league contests, and each time they have come away lacking.

The last game was close however, and were it not for the fact that it was against Pine Bush it would seem that Wallkill was a coming ballclub.

The southern Ulster Indians either outscored or tied the Bushmen in every quarter but the third, in which they fell eight points behind and never recovered.

Onteora is coming off a strong win at Ellenville in which Patrick's squad recovered from a 24-15 pasting in the first quarter to roll to a 74-67 victory.

The story against the Indians was a 32 point effort from Steve Kimmell, who took up the slack left by the ailing John Stelcen, and almost complete domination of the backboards by six foot-seven inch center Bob Klementis.

Ellenville shot well over 50 per cent from the floor, but didn't get too many second chances when the hoop proved futile as Klementis came up with 20 rebounds to go with his 16 point effort. Seven of these rebounds were under the offensive boards, and most of these were converted via the big man's patented backward layup.

Game Postponed

Tonight's UCAL basketball game—Rondout Valley at Marlboro—has been postponed because of the illness of the two coaches—Chick Meehan of the Ganders and Ed Sagarese of the Dukes. It has been rescheduled for Jan. 14.

The Hugenots are in action at home against Ellenville Friday, trying to make it two straight over the Blue Devils and up their season mark to 4-2. Coach Frank Davis may have to try without frontcourt stalwart Jim Manee, however, and that may make the contest a little tougher.

Without Manee under the boards helping center Bruce Koenig, the Hugenots were outbounded for the first time this year Tuesday and the Ganders were able to penetrate the New Paltz zone almost at will.

A cold second quarter was all that cost the Blue Devils the game against Onteora and coach Howie (Skip) Liebenow is anxious to see that sort of thing doesn't happen again.

Record-Breaker Beamon Is UPI Sportsman of Year

LONDON (UPI) — Super-charged Bob Beamon, who parlayed the advice from idols Jesse Owens and Ralph Boston into a world long jump record at the 1968 Olympic Games in Mexico, was named Sportsman of the Year today by United Press International in the annual balloting of European sports editors.

Beamon, a 22-year-old Texas at El Paso junior from New York, soared 29 feet 2 1/2 inches for his Olympic and world long jump mark. His feat brought 25 first place votes and 271 points in the poll of 30 European sports editors.

Jean-Claude Killy of France, a three-goal ski medalist in the 1968 winter Olympics, was second and Al Oerter of West Islip, N.Y., who set a record by winning the discus in four different Olympiads, was third in the voting.

Doll-like Vera Caslavsky,

Czechoslovakian gymnast, won four gold medals in individual exercises at Mexico City and this effort earned her European Woman Athlete of the Year honors by the slimmest of margins. She beat out teenager swimmer Debbie Meyer of Sacramento, Calif., by one point, 247 to 246. The Czech gymnast's unparalleled accomplishment of seven gold medals in two Olympics accounted for most Eastern and Central European editors nominating Miss Caslavsky. The sport is popular in that part of the continent.

Bruno Leads Team

Paced by forward Gene Bruno, who leads the team in scoring with 60 points for an average of 23 per game and rebounding with 54 for an 18 average, Gilligan's squad has compiled a 2-1 mark against non-league opponents.

The Maroons have been shooting 40.5 percent from the floor and 60 percent from the foul line, pulling down an average of 43.3 rebounds a game and, much to Gilligan's concern, committing an average of 20.3 turnovers.

Three games are also on tap in the Dutchess County Scholastic League, with Poughkeepsie playing at Saugerties, Roy C. Ketcham of Wappingers Falls at Our Lady of Lourdes and Roosevelt at Beacon.

Essex Real Threat In UCCC Tourney

Essex County (N.J.) College basketball team has been invited to play in the Ulster County Community College Holiday Tournament in Kingston on Dec. 27-28, UCCC Coach Mike Perry announced today.

"The Essex team is one of the better two-year college squads in the New Jersey-Pennsylvania area," said Coach Perry. "It will definitely add to the stature of our tournament," he added.

Cobleskill Tech and Long Island Aggies are the two other teams invited to the four-team, single elimination tournament which was won by Manhattan CC of New York.

The coach of the Essex team is Marshal Brown, who has coached basketball and track teams in this country and abroad.

Co-captains of the Essex quintet are James Trisuzzi and Samuel Majors. Although only 5-foot-9, Trisuzzi is big in assists and playmaking, and is considered to be an excellent dribbler.

Majors, who stands 6 feet, has very quick hands on defense and also has gained distinction for his fine ball handling and playmaking.

The other three on the starting Essex five are Jerome McGee, Roger Marshall and Morris Griffin.

The 6-foot-4 McGee is a constant offensive threat with a deadly jump shot and driving layup, while Marshall, 6-foot-1, is take-charge type of player which every good team needs.

The 6-foot-4 Griffin is the Wolverines' "big man," an excellent rebounder who can score on taps or from jump shots.

Five players, four of them over six feet tall, furnish the bench strength for the Essex team. They are: Leonard Grudman, 6-2; Robert Reeves, 6-1; Steve Roberts, 6-3; Kenneth Nelson, 5-7; and Jimmy Smith, 6-2.

In the opening round Saturday, St. Joseph's meets St. Catherine's at 7:30 p. m. followed by St. Mary's and St. Francis at 8:30. The championship game is scheduled Sunday at 8:30, with the losers competing in the consolation at 7:30 p. m.

With the hunting season rapidly coming to a close, most reports show that, except for club hunting it has not been the most successful season in history, locally.

Except for the release of more than 1,000 pheasants by the Ulster County federation, very few other birds were available for the gun. In recent years, with farmlands rapidly decreasing, if it were not for individual club releases and that of the Federation, very little bird hunting would be available to this area.

To most hunters, belonging to a club is almost a must. It must be noted that the 40 or more clubs in the county federation spend thousands of dollars of their limited treasuries to propagate and distribute game. Naturally, all game stocked finds its way back to private lands and state land, affording the general public some sort of hunting.

TO THOSE WHO PREFER rabbit hunting, there is still plenty of time for this fine sport. It seems to us that the law banning the stocking of rabbits is somewhat on the ridiculous side and it is hoped that the officials will soon see fit to allow the stocking of rabbits again.

Some good reports have come in from Greene County about plenty of action for the rabbit hunters. As usual, there is plenty of posted land to the north but, in most cases, land owners are most cooperative to hunters who first seek permission to hunt. And what could be more relaxing than a crisp romp in the snow, the baying of the hounds and a good rabbit and spaghetti dinner.

Now that the original Silver Hollow property has been withdrawn from sale, the Phoenicia Fish and Game Club land acquisition committee is making efforts to obtain another piece of property nearby. The club, one of the largest in the federation, is now stranded with the new alignment of Route 28 but we feel sure that the efforts of some real hard workers the club will come up with some choice land and streams for its members.

WITH ONLY 404 DEER taken from the Moose River area during the 1968 hunting season, we wonder what kind of gimmick the Conservation Department will come up with now to harvest (that's what it's called) an over-abundance of deer.

A 16-point, 188-pound buck, 5 1/2 years old, was the largest taken. The figures show a decrease of 93 from last year. Of the 92 deer trapped and tagged during the 1967-68 winter, only nine have been reported taken.

From here, it looks like the deer outsmarted the hunter and those who hunted the area say the pressure reminded them of New Year's Eve on Times Square.

FOR A FEW DAYS last week it looked like the ice fishermen might be in for an early start but so far no reports of the "cold weather boys" venturing onto the ice.

This sport is gaining more popularity each year and, if possible, Old Rip hopes to get back into harness after a lapse of a couple seasons. Like all good fishing spots, the tip-up fisherman tries to keep his hot spot a military secret, but when the season moves into full swing, most lakes and ponds in the area are dotted with tip-ups galore.

Many local fishermen head for Sullivan County which has many open lakes available, some for a small fee and all furnishing good pickerel and perch fishing. It may be well to consult your game syllabus for regulations, limits, etc. We can recall some real action at Silver Lake, near Rhinebeck, and some fried chicken as only Vern Radel, the chef, could prepare it. A must is the old standby (Thunderbird) for those cold hands and feet.

PLEASED TO SEE that the county federation has decided to sponsor a display at next year's Ulster County Fair at New Paltz. We mentioned this in a column this past summer, pointing out that such a project would indicate to the public the wide interest of sportsmen in the propagation of fish and game. Now we hope all clubs will get back of this promotion 100 per cent.

Haskins' Effort Paces Chicago Bulls Victory

By United Press International
Clem Haskins went four for six and that performance can be a game winner almost any time.

Haskins scored four points in the final six seconds Thursday night to provide the Chicago Bulls with a 113-111 victory over the Milwaukee Bucks.

A second-year man in the National Basketball Association, Haskins climaxed a 25-point spree for the night with a field goal and two foul shots as Chicago scored its third straight victory over the expansion Bucks.

Bob Boozer matched Haskins' output with 25 points and Barry Clemens added 19 for Chicago, which climbed into a fourth place tie with San Francisco in the Western Division.

Len Chappell, hitting on 12 field goals and 11 for 12 free throws, led Milwaukee with 35 points. Flynn Robinson added 22 in a losing cause and Jon McGlocklin netted 21 in the only NBA action of the night.

McHartley, acquired by the Nets for three games in the American Basketball Association, as New York Nets dumped the Miami Floridians, 119-110; New Orleans downed Dallas 113-108 and Denver routed Kentucky 116-95.

Ron Perry, traded by Miami to the Nets five days ago, came back to haunt his old teammates with 24 points. Maurice

DeBusschere for Bellamy and Komives

Knicks, Pistons Got Their Man

DETROIT (UPI)—The Detroit Pistons finally have what they've wanted for years: a big center in Walt Bellamy. The New York Knickerbockers also have what they've coveted for quite a spell: Dave DeBusschere.

That was the essence of a National Basketball Association trade Thursday which stunned Detroit fans, although New York also gave up guard Howard Komives. The swap gets its first examination tonight when the two clubs tangle in Cobo Arena here.

Detroit snapped an eight-game losing streak Wednesday and is mired in sixth place in the East Division, 12 games off the pace and four games behind New York. The Pistons' desperate need has been a big center to get the ball to their free-wheeling guards.

"It's not the end of the world," DeBusschere said after learning of the deal. "I knew the Pistons would have to do something to start winning."

"I knew they'd either have to give (Dave) Big G or me to get a big man, so I wasn't particularly surprised," said the 6-foot-6 forward who played his high school and college ball in Detroit and has been one of the city's most popular sports figures.

New York has been after DeBusschere for several years now but started dealing for the seven-year veteran, who coached the Pistons from 1965-67, in a devious manner.

The Knicks started out fishing for Bing, switched talks to another player—probably Jim Walker—then craftily "settled" for DeBusschere.

While getting a 28-year-old who averaged 16.1 points per game and is approaching the 5,000 mark in rebounds, New York had to surrender its 29-year-old center.

Bellamy, who has played with four teams during his controversial eight-year career, was clicking for 15.2 points per contest this season although his average is better than 24 for his career. The 6-foot-11 former Indiana star also has more than 8,000 rebounds.

Komives, 27, is a left-handed graduate of Bowling Green who carries an 11-point average for his three previous seasons of pro ball.

"We had to give somebody to get somebody," shrugged coach Paul Seymour, who has swung three deals since assuming control of the Detroit club less than a month ago.

"It's great. I've always wanted to play for the Pistons," said Bellamy, who's been in trouble for his allegedly bad attitude since he broke into the NBA with the old Chicago team in 1961.

Komives was supposedly frustrated in New York because he didn't play much last year after being a starter the season before but the situation isn't going to get much better for him because he's coming to a team which has Bing, Eddie Miles and Walker in the backcourt.

"Emotionally I'm disappointed that Dave is leaving town," said DeBusschere's coach at the University of Detroit, Bob Calihan, in expressing the shocked city's sentiment.

But Seymour had a solution for that too: "They'll get over it—as soon as we win a few."

DeJordy—The Hot One

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Suddenly, the hottest goaltender in the National Hockey League is Chicago's Denis DeJordy, who just five weeks ago shuffled off to the Central League with his 3.70 goals against average and the boos of Black Hawk fans ringing in his ears.

DeJordy, recalled this week after Chicago had allowed 27 goals in five games, shut out Detroit 2-0 Thursday night for the Hawks' third straight victories. He has allowed just one goal in the two games since returning to the NHL.

In other NHL action Thursday, Boston rallied for a 6-4 victory over Los Angeles and Philadelphia wiped out a three-goal deficit to tie Minnesota 5-5.

DeJordy, who kicked out 34 shots against New York Wednesday night, stopped 33 more against the Red Wings for his first shutout of the year. He was locked in a scoreless duel with Detroit's Roger Crozier through the first two periods.

Then Doug Mohns' slap shot a half minute into the final period bounced off a Red Wing defender and past Crozier.

Midway through the period, in the NHL's East Division

Bobby Schmautz' fifth goal of the year completed the scoring. Bobby Hull, the NHL's leading scorer, went without a goal for the second straight game and was involved in a second period fight with Detroit's Ron Harris.

Johnny Bucyk and Ron Murphy scored two goals apiece for Boston but it was Ed Westfall's tally with less than six minutes remaining that broke a tie and triggered Boston's victory over Los Angeles.

The triumph moved Boston within one point of idle Montreal.

Jack Hand Predicts Dallas-Colts Finale

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — If everything goes according to form the Dallas Cowboys will be playing the Baltimore Colts for the National Football League title Dec. 29 and the Kansas City Chiefs will be playing the New York Jets for the American Football League crown.

Form has a way of flip-flopping in these playoff games and it could very well do a somersault Saturday at Cleveland or Sunday at Baltimore or Oakland.

The NFL weekend program calls for Dallas (12-2) at Cleveland (10-4) for the Eastern Conference championship Saturday and Minnesota (8-6) at Baltimore (13-1) Sunday for the Western Conference title.

In the AFL it will be Kansas City (12-2) at Oakland (12-2), Sunday in a playoff for the Western Division title and the right to play the Jets in New York the following Sunday.

After last week's 11-1 record anybody with the smarts would call it quits. But here's a last whirl at the picking.

NFL

Dallas 24, Cleveland 20 (Saturday)—The Cowboys beat the Browns in September 28-7 when Frank Ryan was picking for Cleveland and Dan Reeves still was healthy and running for Dallas. When they met last year for the Eastern title in Dallas, the Cowboys really poured it on, 52-14 when Bob Hayes running wild on punt returns.

Both teams have explosive attacks but Dallas has the sounder defense, giving up only two touchdowns on the ground all year. If Jethro Pugh is sub par from last Sunday's knee injury in New York, watch the Browns send Leroy Kelly into Dallas' left side.

Both were dull last week, the Cowboys in a 28-10 win over New York, the Browns in a 27-16 defeat by St. Louis.

Baltimore 20, Minnesota's 16 (Sunday)—Colts held off the flu-stricken Vikings 21-9 on Nov. 24 after opening up 21-3 halftime lead.

The Vikes really took out after Earl Morrall in the second half, intercepting two and forcing a fumble but Baltimore dug in and stopped Bill Brown twice on the one-yard line in a tense goal line stand.

Minnesota offense can't compare its Colts, especially in air, where erratic Joe Kapp will oppose Morrall.

Baltimore probably will try for the bomb early because injury to Terry Cole and doubtful condition of Jerry Hill hurts their ground game. Return of Dave Osborn in last two games, after knee surgery gives Vikings big plus.

This can be a real war, perhaps the best game of the season.

AFL

Kansas City 24, Oakland 21 (Sunday)—The past performance book is confusing. The Chiefs went to the old tight-T and whipped the Raiders 24-10 on Oct. 20 and two weeks later were bombed by Daryle Lamonia 38-21. In a pre-season game Kansas City won 31-21.

Hank Stram's club closed strong and Oakland has won last eight.

Against common foes in last two weeks, Chiefs bombed San Diego, 40-3, Raiders squeaked home 34-27. Chiefs clubbed Denver 30-7, Raiders rallied for 33-27 edge.

Oakland has better running but Lamonia passed them silly Nov. 3. No love lost on either side in this one.

Sorry About That:

Hijacker After Arrival in Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A hijacker who said he had nitroglycerin forced an Eastern Airlines jet with 151 persons aboard to fly him to Cuba late Thursday. He apologized as he left the plane.

"I'm sorry, captain," the tall, slender hijacker said on arrival in Havana where six soldiers escorted him off the aircraft. "I wouldn't have hurt anybody."

It was the fifth consecutive week that an airliner had been hijacked to Cuba. Six commercial planes have been hijacked to Cuba during that time and 20 this year.

No Hesitancy

Capt. Orris F. Firth, 56, a veteran of 30 years with the airline, said he had no hesitancy about flying to Cuba when the man listed as "C. Washington" on a nonstop flight from Philadelphia to Miami handed a note to a stewardess to divert the plane.

"The threat was enough for me," Firth said after returning to Miami with his crew of seven. "I had 142 (other) people on board."

"I was in the galley when this man came to me," said Uta B. Risse, 23-year-old German-born stewardess. "He asked what time we would get to Miami."

"He threw down a note and said, 'Tell the captain we won't get there. Tell him we're going.'"

Miss Risse said the man occupied a seat in the last row with his daughter, Jennifer, aged 2½.

"He had something in a bag and held it in his hand. He said it was a cap pistol," Miss Risse said. "I asked him to come to the cockpit. He said he wasn't moving. The note said he had a bottle of nitroglycerin."

Never Exposed Gun

Miss Risse said the hijacker never exposed the gun and she sat with an empty seat between them.

"He was shaking and once he cried and said he was doing it for his daughter," the stewardess said. "The girl was crying loudly and I cried and she used some tissue I'd given her to wipe my tears."

Miss Risse said there were many teen-agers among her passengers and they were giggling and laughing.

"I wasn't scared," she said. "I was worried. He was very tall and slender, six-foot or five, very nervous."

The 141 remaining passengers went by bus from Havana to Varadero and returned to Miami today aboard two Electra jets flown to Cuba by Eastern.

The plane was loaded with family groups en route to Miami for the holidays.

Most said they were treated well in Cuba and many bought rum and cigars. Customs officials promptly confiscated the goods from the Communist island.

Dec. 20, 1948 — A record flood of mail was reported by the Kingston Post office as the Christmas mailing season began its full course. Kingston Postmaster William Kraft made the report.

A sudden snowfall of from five to six inches was recorded in the Kingston area.

a station wagon on Route 9W at West Park. All local residents, they were killed when their car turned over after colliding with the station wagon which plunged off the side of the road.

Kingston Schools were reported to be eligible for $225,000 more in state aid over the previous year due to expansion and increased student population.

Dear Abby

Dad of 8 Must Grow Up

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

(© 1968 by Chicago Tribune - N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my youngest son. He has had two bad marriages and now he is separated from his third wife. He has eight children from these three marriages and he has to support them all.

The last two are only babies yet and with all the alimony and support money he has to pay out he can't afford to hire anyone to look after the little ones, so he counts on me.

Abby, I am 68 years old and my husband is an invalid and I am not in very good health myself, but how can a mother say no to her own son! He is 32 years old, but he is still my baby.

SYRACUSE MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: Your "baby" is responsible for eight babies of his own. He is very good at multiplying, but he doesn't know how to add or subtract. Let him work this problem out himself. If he knows he can't "count on you" he may find a solution and grow up in the process.

DEAR ABBY: Is it true that in the state of Massachusetts 10 kisses are equal to a proposal of marriage?

HEARD IT
DEAR HEARD IT: I have a deal with the Massachusetts Bar association. They don't give advice and I don't practice law. But if there is such a "law" I'll bet it would take a Philadelphia lawyer to make it stick.

DEAR ABBY: I can understand how a business man might insist that his receptionist find out who is calling before he picks up the telephone, but how about this? At home my husband expects ME to find out who is calling before he'll come to the phone. I tell him this is his HOME, not his OFFICE — that I am NOT his receptionist, and since I answer the telephone all the time and have to talk to anyone who calls me, why shouldn't he? If I am wrong, let me have it.

HIS MAJESTY'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: You asked for it. I think you're wrong. A business man is sometimes annoyed at home by calls he has refused to take at his office. True, you aren't his receptionist, but as his wife, you should be even more mindful of his best interests.

DEAR ABBY: I finished high school and took a secretarial course. I'm working now, and my parents expect me to pay room and board. I don't dig it at all. After all, I didn't ask to be born, so isn't it their duty to take care of me?

I am always being bugged about helping with the housework and ironing. I thought it was a mother's job to do housework, laundry, and cooking. She works only part time and I think my time off should be my own to do as I please. Even rest, if I want to. I am only young once. I am thinking about moving into an apartment with a girl friend. No more midnight curfews. "Where are you going and where have you been?"

NINETEEN
DEAR NINETEEN: I think you need to grow up, all right, and I advise you to stay home until you do.

Everybody has a problem.

What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

HATE TO WRITE LETTERS? SEND $1 TO ABBY, BOX 69700, LOS ANGELES, CAL., 90069, FOR ABBY'S BOOKLET, "HOW TO WRITE LETTERS FOR ALL OCCASIONS."

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Take initiative. Be self-starter. Much fun indicated tonight. You make new contacts. Stress independence, originality. You could meet individual who gives you what is needed.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You do best behind the scenes. Let others have the glory today. Quiet approach gains your objective. Fine for dining out, attending theater. Be quiet within. Answers will come.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are going to have new responsibilities. Project recently begun will grow, and you will have to be aware, alert and confident. You are fond of travel and are attracted to distant places.

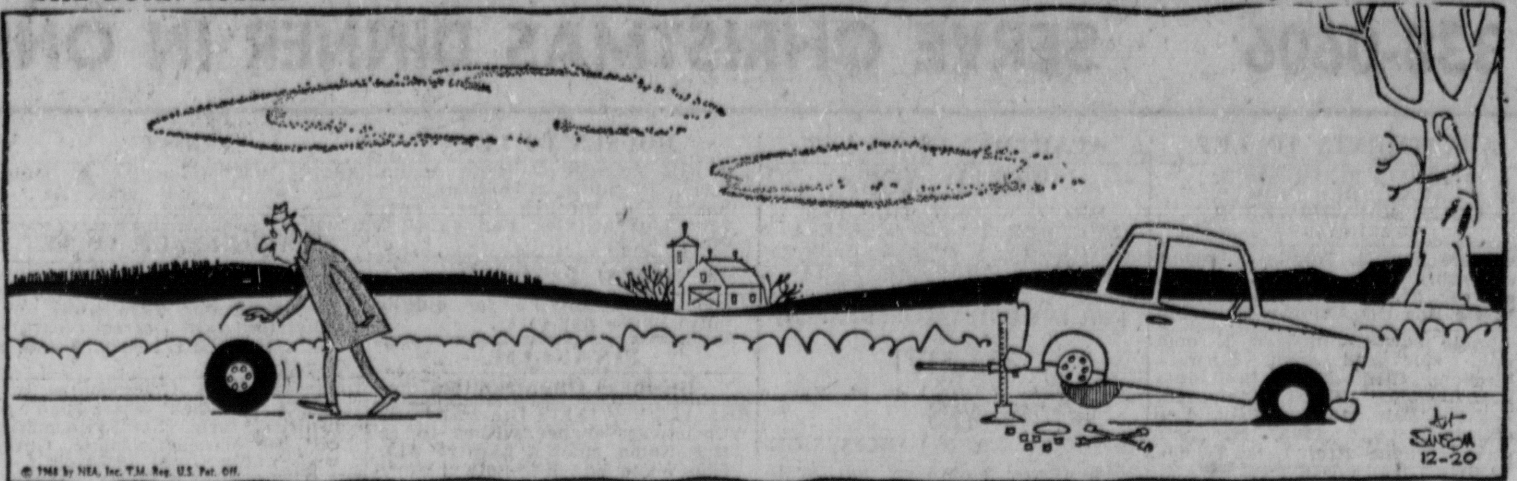

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for AQUARIUS, PISCES. Special word for LEO: Give special attention to mate, close associate.

In the team trials at Atlantic City every pair got to three no-trump with the North and South cards and four of them made the game. It really doesn't require much skill to get these nine tricks. The ace and queen of diamonds, jack of clubs and king of spades are all placed where declarer wants them to be and there are nine tricks waiting, irrespective of which suit he works on.

Nevertheless Billy Eisenberg and Bobby Goldman of Dallas managed to find a way to set three no-trump.

South won the heart lead with his queen and led the jack of diamonds. It would be silly to duck with Billy's holding and other West players went up with the ace. Billy compromised by playing the queen.

South's next lead was dummy's queen of clubs. Billy won this trick and led a second heart to South's ace. South played the five of diamonds and Billy ducked this one.

What card would you play from dummy if you were South? You can see that the 10 is the winning card but South didn't play it. He decided that Bobby had ducked the first diamond with the ace. Therefore South called for dummy's eight. Bobby got a surprise trick with his nine and led his last heart to set up a 13er for Billy. South had nothing better to do than set up his own 13er in diamonds. This put Billy in with the ace. He cashed his little heart for the fourth defensive trick and led his singleton spade. South could only duck in dummy and Bobby's king of spades set the contract.

contretemps (KON-tre-tahn)
an embarrassing occurrence
The pretty debutante's unfortunate contretemps, spilling ice on the hostess's dress, caused a great deal of unnecessary confusion at the inaugural dance. After listening to her mother recall a contretemps, that had opened to her when she was young, the attractive daughter hoped the same incident would not repeat itself.

Rough Going for Emmy Show

NEW YORK (AP) — Emmy, Oscar's hard-luck, plain Jane little sister, will be 21 next May — if she makes it.

Already there are angry rumblings and threats that some VIPs may boycott TV's coming-of-age party. The National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences has again revised the rules for candidates for its golden statuette. But instead of placating the critics of its awards procedures, the academy finds itself in the center of a new, bitter controversy.

Dogged by Discussion
The Emmy awards, TV's way of honoring its own, at least in theory, seems dogged by dissension and disaster. A few seasons back there was a big rebellion when CBS News led a walk-out in a controversy over judging methods. Eventually this was sort of smoothed over. Then last spring came that embarrassing disorganized awards show that was literally a tragedy of error and mishaps.

Now the awards committee has made some more changes relating to the qualifications of nominees—notably a rule that bars programs and those associated with programs that have been on the air for two years or more.

While there was a lot of grumbling, the first real action was taken by an ABC vice president who complained that network executives were given no chance to discuss the changes before they were put through.

Criticism of the two-season rules stems from the fact that several programs and performers have been nominated for Emmy awards in seasons past but never won the balloting. Now they are automatically out of the running. A good example is Mario Thomas and her show, "That Girl."

By the very nature of television, there are too many categories and too many performers ever to make an awards contest very meaningful. And, on the other side of the coin, networks and independent producers—who privately kiss off the Emmys as meaningless—all want to win Emmys because they have a certain exploitation and publicity value.

Better or Else
This year the number of categories has been chopped down a bit—but it still is more than 30 and is too big for comfort.

One thing is certain: This spring's Emmy awards show will be better than last season's, or the survival of the awards themselves will be on the line.

8th North Attack Since the Halt

By ALVIN B. WEBB JR.

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. Air Force warplanes bombed North Vietnam for the eighth time since the Nov. 1 bomb halt, military spokesmen said today.

The F4 Phantoms hit an anti-aircraft gun that opened fire on the reconnaissance plane they were escorting 40 miles north of the border Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) Thursday.

Still in Effect

American headquarters emphasized the halt. President Johnson called in the northern bombing to ease the way for Paris negotiations was still in effect.

Johnson reserved the right to hit back at North Vietnamese guns that fired into South Vietnam or aimed at American reconnaissance planes charging the Communists' use of the bomb halt.

The announcement said the North Vietnamese opened up on an unarmed Air Force RF4C Phantom reconnaissance plane and a band of armed Phantom escorts west of the port city of Dong Hoi. None of the U.S. planes was hit.

Wheeling back, the escort Phantoms attacked the anti-aircraft gun with bombs and rockets, spokesmen said. They left a towering plume of black smoke but pilots were unable to assess the damage they had done.

On Nov. 25, U.S. fighter-bombers hit Communist guns near Vinh further north in an attempt to rescue four American reconnaissance pilots shot down on picture-taking missions. The rescue attempt failed.

3 Lost During Halt
The United States has lost three planes to North Vietnam.

These gunfire during the bombing halt—two reconnaissance planes and one armed escort plane. All six crewmen are listed as missing in action.

North Vietnam fired a 10-round mortar salvo into Leathernecks camp Thursday night 1,600 yards below the DMZ. There were no American casualties, the report said.

Marine mortarmen fired back at the Red guns but were unable to determine if they had been on target.

From two sites in the southern half of the zone, the Ky Cautions U.S.

PARIS (UPI)—Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam today said U.S. forces should get out of his country if Washington accepts a Vietnam war "solution which will make us the slaves of the Communists."

"If their goal has changed, they can leave. I myself would ask them," Ky said in an interview in the Paris newspaper L'Express.

Ky spoke amid a rift between his delegation and U.S. negotiators on how to meet Communist demands blocking the opening of delayed war talks here.

Defense Secretary Clark M. Clifford and other critics have accused Ky's delegates of delaying the opening.

Ky today said his government "is not trying to block the negotiations."

The South Vietnamese deputy leader also said the military situation in his country would have been better now if it had ordered general mobilization in 1965.

He said U.S. Gen. Maxwell Taylor at that time turned down his request for such mobilization.

"It's too bad because right now there would have been far less Americans in Vietnam," Ky said.

He said his nation now has a million men under arms. "But the American press only speaks about the Americans and they don't see our action," he said.

"Why would the Americans abandon us? Why would they have fought for nothing?"

He said a U.S. pullout would abandon South Vietnam to the Communists and threaten South Korea and Thailand.

Ky said Americans must understand that even if "foreign and North Vietnamese troops" withdraw from South Vietnam after agreement here is reached, "in a year or maybe earlier they would be back."

He said he doubts there will be a new Viet Cong offensive now "since they would have everything to lose. They would be crushed and Washington could break off (the talks), especially if many Americans were killed."

Ky spoke as diplomatic observers said there is virtually no chance for progress in holding the talks this year between North and South Vietnam, the United States and the Viet Cong.

The Communists have insisted on recognition of the Viet Cong as a full delegation partner.

Neither Washington nor Saigon have agreed but have differed on how to counter the demand.

11 Freed GIs In Bangkok

BANGKOK (UPI)—Eleven of the 12 American servicemen released from Cambodian captivity arrived today on their way home for Christmas.

A 12th U.S. serviceman freed by Cambodian Chief of State Prince Norodom Sihanouk was too badly wounded to travel, diplomatic sources said.

The 11 who flew to Bangkok aboard a commercial airliner from the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh were the Americans aboard a landing craft that strayed into Cambodia's territorial waters July 17 while on patrol duty in South Vietnam. Airport witnesses said all but two of the 11 appeared in excellent health.

The man left behind was Spec. 4 Earl Gurnsey. The sources said doctors in Phnom Penh did not want him to travel yet. He was wounded when his helicopter was shot down Nov. 27 near the Cambodian-South Vietnamese border. He said he was dragged across the border into Cambodia.

Sihanouk said Thursday he was releasing the 12 as a Christmas gesture.

"He said he wanted them to be home for Christmas and we are proceeding to get them there for it," an American official said.

There was no immediate word when the 11 would leave for home.

Local Career Offerings

College students and service-men home for the holidays will be able to find out what career openings are available in Ulster County by visiting the Career Opportunities Conference at the Governor Clinton Hotel between noon and 8 p.m. on Monday.

The area's leading industrial, business and teacher employers will maintain displays in the hotel's Crystal Room to show specific career opportunities. The booths will be staffed by interviewers who will talk privately with interested students.

The event is sponsored by the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce through its Education Committee. Broad areas covered and employers participating include:

Accounting, banking and insurance—Peat Marwick Mitchell & Co., Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company, and all area banks and savings and loan associations represented by the Kingston Area Financial Council.

Education—Kingston City Schools, Consolidated.

Manufacturing—Ferroxcube Corporation of America, International Business Machines Corp. (IBM), and Rotron Manufacturing Company, Inc.

Retailing, sales, etc.—Agway Co-op, Inc., Britt's, and Montgomery Ward & Co.

Utilities—Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation, New York Telephone Company.

In addition, the Chamber of Commerce will maintain an exhibit at which general information about Ulster County and job opportunities will be made available, in cooperation with the New York State Employment Service. Free refreshments will be available.

Intended primarily for college students who will be receiving their bachelor's, master's or associate degrees in the spring, and for servicemen who have degrees or equivalent training and who expect to be discharged in the near future, the Conference will be open to everyone and there is no admission charge.

Russell Brott, supervisor of the New York State Employment Service Kingston office, and a member of the Chamber's Education Committee, has listed the following occupations for which there is substantial demand in Ulster County:

Electrical engineers, electronic engineers, electronic technicians, mechanical draftsmen, registered nurses, physical therapists, manager trainees, case workers, teachers and secretaries.

"Career Opportunities Conference demonstrates our pride in our young people, and at the same time our belief that Ulster County is a good place in which to live and work," according to John R. Warren, chairman of the Chamber's Education Committee.

Others who served with Warren and Brott on the Education Committee in planning the Conference include Dr. Wendell W. Hoover, Louis J. Salzmann, William Turcotte, Dr. William Ittner, Walter Read, Michael Aronica, Bevier Sleight, Kenneth P. Pangburn, and Peter O. Allen.

Financial Council Represents Banking Image in Ulster County

The Kingston Area Financial Council, representing the eight financial institutions headquartered in the City of Kingston, are underlying the slogan of the college Career Opportunities Day, "As a college graduate you can work in 50 states, but the real opportunity is in Ulster County," by participation in the clinic at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Wednesday.

The council portrays the image of banking in the county as dynamic and growing and with a need for employees who can realize that finance, after human labor, is basic to community growth and that the efforts of the banker can be rewarding to a person who is willing to acquire basic skills and banking experience.

They note that local financial institutions not only offer a gamut of services that are unusual in that, among the various institutions, they include savings and checking accounts, commercial and home mortgages (with escrow services for taxes and insurance), passbook and collateral loans, Christmas and vacation clubs, safe deposit box rentals, bank money orders and travelers checks, personal loans for home improvements and for purchase of automobiles, boats and household appliances, business loans and trust services but that they are progressive and inter-competitive to the point that such services are of a quality and at fees and rates which are not generally found in smaller cities.

Community Role

They note further that Kingston financial institutions are not only secure and profitable depositories for individual community funds but that they play a much larger role in community development by making their funds available by loan to individuals and corporations and by participation in city, county, state and federal financing through their investment portfolios.

Member Banks

Indicative of the customer-orientation of banking services, the council lists 26 convenient offices and branches in most neighborhoods in the Kingston environs.

Ferroxcube

Ferroxcube Corporation, Ulster County's second largest employer, will be one of the local industries manning a booth at the Career Opportunities Day.

Started in 1950 with less than 20 employees, the firm has grown to be one of the major area industries. The name stems from manufacturing line. Ferroxcube represents the ferrous-oxide (iron oxide) which is used in conjunction with other materials. The Cube symbolically defines the elementary cell in the crystal structure of the ferrite product.

Ferroxcube was started jointly by the Sprague Electric Company of North Adams, Mass., and the North American Philips Company of New York. Ferroxcube then proceeded to establish a leading market position in the field of ferromagnetic ferrites which were used as components in television and radio.

East Bridge Street, Saugerties, was the first plant. In 1957 the North American Philips Company purchased complete control of the organization from Sprague. At this point in its history — Ferroxcube, with new technology pouring from its laboratories, entered the field of professional ferrite devices for the telecommunications industry.

Ferroxcube with its large bank of ferrite experience, entered the computer industry in 1959, by supplying IBM with a major share of its computer memory cores. As business continued to grow, Ferroxcube added a new facility on Russell Street. This was a result of an upward product integration toward memory planes and memory stacks for computers.

Company sales which were of a regional nature to now—grew into national coast-to-coast scope with these products.

As the ferrite business rapidly grew along with the inductive component products for telecommunications, Ferroxcube added a new 85,000 square foot plant in Mt. Marion. These modern facilities provided the fertile atmosphere for, soon to be added, new talent. With the acquisition of this new talent, new ideas were spawned, from these ideas new and more sophisticated product lines developed, namely a complete line of flying and contact recording heads and memory systems.

The sales department has expanded from three people to over 30. In 1964 to keep pace with a steadily increasing flow of orders, Ferroxcube constructed another Mt. Marion building (45,000 square feet) and closed down its East Bridge Street, Russell Street, and Main Street Plants.

In assessing the firm's interest in the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce homecoming fete Monday, Gerald B. McKenna, manager, employment and management development said:

"Ferroxcube is interested primarily in potential contributors who will help us to maintain our reputation and to continue to grow. A dramatic growth rate which has more than doubled our size in the last five years has and is creating constant opportunities at all levels in the areas of chemistry, engineering, physics, mathematics, finance and marketing.

"The company is structured in such a manner as to be able to offer the advantages of both the personal atmosphere and broad responsibilities found in a smaller company and the excitement and strength of an industrial giant."

Guidance Aid Vital For High Schoolers

By DAVID NYDICK

UPI Education Specialist

The guidance counselor in a high school is a most important person in the individualization of the program. He or she is the one who can help and advise each individual student and the parent. The guidance counselor should not always make the decisions but should try to help the individual arrive at his own understanding.

The guidance counselor can be the difference between success and failure of a student. What are some of the ways in which a counselor can be helpful?

Should a student be in a general, commercial, vocational or college preparatory program? The counselor can help the student design a program and provide opportunities which are realistic and yet not limit his ambitions.

High school students may develop social problems. The counselor can be an excellent sounding board and advisor in helping the students arrive at solutions.

A most important area of operations for the guidance counselor is that of assisting with college admissions. This can be a difficult task for students who don't know how to go about it. Colleges vary in specialties, admission requirements, and size. The counselor is familiar with many colleges and can be most help in suggesting appropriate choices.

An area of concern which has received much recent publicity is that of drop-outs. Students drop out of school for a variety of reasons. Regardless of the cause, they may suffer for the rest of their lives. Research has shown that drop-outs are more likely to be unemployed. They face many financial problems as adults. The guidance counselor can play an important role in helping these students to remain in school until graduation.

All in all, the guidance counselor has a very important part in a high school program. He is the person who can help each individual student to be a successful graduate and adult.

Home for Holidays?

Plan Ahead

The world of business awaits seniors from high school and college who will join the working ranks after graduation.

And now is the time for the alert student to make the move. Those who want to work when they are through school should put in applications during the Christmas holidays.

The New York State Division of Employment urges interested students to take time out from the holiday recess for a call at the local State Employment Service office.

There they can discuss wants and needs with an experienced interviewer.

This service of the state division of employment provides career seekers with professional know how in finding just the right job for their talents.

So make the vacation pay off. After visiting the array of Career Opportunities Conference booths at the Governor Clinton Hotel Monday, stop by the local State Employment Service office.

A Warm Welcome

To all who are spending the holidays in our area, the folks at Newcombe Oil extend best wishes.

We hope you find your homecoming as satisfying as you had expected. For our part, we are happy you're here.

IBM KINGSTON — The IBM Systems Manufacturing Division plant and Systems Development Division laboratory in Kingston is shown in aerial view. Here, some of the larger data processing systems and information handling devices produced in the IBM Corporation are designed, developed, and manufactured. IBM Kingston plays a major role in the production of the IBM System/360, having corporate responsibility for the larger data processor configurations, power supplies for System/360, and ferrite core memories. The Kingston facility, which now employs more than 5,000 people, began operation in 1955 with production of the SAGE computer for the government.

Rare Language Skills Part Of HEW Development Program

Thirteen colleges and universities in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania deserve a share of the credit for the growing number of Americans who can talk Swahili or communicate in Hindi-Urdu and dozens of other uncommon languages in which Americans had little or no proficiency 10 years ago.

They are among the institutions of higher education throughout the country that operate language and area centers for the teaching of some 90 tongues ranging from Afrikaans to Zulu.

This is the tenth anniversary of the language development program that was started under the National Defense Education Act of 1958 to meet the Nation's need for experts in critical languages and the areas of the world where these languages are spoken.

Under Title VI of the Act, the Office of Education today supports 106 language and area centers at 63 colleges and universities.

Twenty-six of these centers are situated in New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania. Five centers are at Columbia — the largest number at any university campus in the U.S. There are four at Cornell, three each at the University of Pennsylvania and Princeton, and two each at New York University and the University of Rochester.

Bucknell, Duquesne, Fordham, Lincoln U. (Pa.), Manhattanville College, Pennsylvania State, and Pittsburgh each have one language and area center.

Each center focuses on a specific region of the world and offers instruction in its major languages and cultures. For example, centers for East Asian studies at Bucknell, Columbia, Cornell, Manhattanville, Pittsburgh, Princeton and Rochester offer courses in languages that range from Japanese, available at all seven, to Cantonese, classical, Hokkien, or Mandarin Chinese at Cornell.

And at other centers you can study Vietnamese at Cornell, Lingala at Duquesne, Portuguese at Lincoln, and Old Church Slavonic at either Columbia, Fordham, Pennsylvania, Pennsylvania State, or Princeton.

Booklets Help Career-Minded

Two important booklets which aid the job seeker are available from the Alumnae Advisory Center Inc., 541 Madison Avenue, New York 10022.

The Job Interview tells how to prepare for a job interview; how to be equipped for the job desired; how to get appointments with employers; know what to take to an interview; fill in application forms, answer unexpected qualifications for the job, know how you will be judged, recognize when the interview is over and follow up interviews.

The other significant new book is Data Processing Explained in one easy lesson. The booklet is not for the mathematics student who has been exposed to the subject. Rather it is a simple complete and brief outline of the principles of data processing — and a must for the well informed regardless of chesin field.

Demand for Teachers Remains

Within the past few months in various kinds of printed matter, there have been many articles written about the supply and demand of teachers. Some of these articles have received publicity because they have stated in effect, that there was no longer a teacher shortage. Such articles have reported half-truths.

Those of us in the teacher recruitment business do find that there is an over supply of social science teachers. We find an adequate supply of English teachers, biological science teachers, and in certain times of the year, intermediate grade teachers. There are still critical areas where the supply does not meet the demand. Depending upon your locality, and your proximity to teacher training institutions, the supply and demand varies. In Kingston we find a shortage of female physical education teachers, elementary vocal music teachers, teachers of special education, librarians and industrial arts instructors.

During the recruiting season, we make special efforts to recruit at institutions which prepare the teachers we find difficult to obtain. Nevertheless, for the past few years, Kingston City Schools, Consolidated, has been very fortunate in that we have started school each fall with a complete complement of professionally trained teachers.

Our district employs a large enough number of teachers to create the situation where several teachers need to be replaced monthly. Although the ratio is changing, woman still dominate the education field, and family obligations frequently cause mid-term resignations. Other reasons for mid-term vacancies are prolonged illness, family transfers, and personal reasons. Therein lies our shortage.

Where do we get a teacher on November 1? Where do we get a teacher on April 15? We have no long list of prospective candidates waiting for a vacancy. Those teachers, that were part of a surplus during the summer months, have now found employment with other school districts or positions outside the education field. The young man from the state university college who applied for a position in May and was not a successful candidate, is not waiting for the 5th grade teacher vacancy. He is gone; perhaps in the service; perhaps teaching in another city or working in industry.

Nevertheless, those of us in recruitment and personnel who work in the Kingston City Schools, Consolidated, know that there are many qualified teachers who are not in education and might consider taking over the 5th grade or the 2nd grade or the junior high science or the school librarian position for the remainder of the year. We feel that there are many housewives who might be interested in performing a service for their community by filling in for the teacher vacancy.

There may be several teaching positions vacant in the near future. Persons, who might consider teaching full time for the remainder of the school year, should call the Board of Education Office and talk to the personnel department about the opportunities available. The expression, "nothing ventured, nothing gained," is most applicable here. You may be able to do the school district a favor and at the same time be earning some supplemental income. There is a shortage of qualified teachers throughout the country and the Kingston Schools District is no exception.
